INCOME TAX IN CHICAGO AREA BREAKS RECORD

$3,000,000 Over 1928 as Time Expires.

(Picture on back page.)
Topping last year's mark by more than $3,000,000, residents of the first district of Illinois had paid the record amount of $42,642,757.15 in income taxes when the offices of Mrs. George W. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue, closed at midnight last night. Although the deadline was reached last night, returns placed in the mails before 1 a. m. this morning will be accepted without penalty and will swell the total by a large sum.
At 3 p. m. yesterday this year's returns were running $2,000,000 behind those of 1928. Returns by large corporations, held up until the final day of the large interest sums involved, carried the 1928 figures surging ahead of former records.
154,300 Returns Filed.
The figures showed that 154,300 returns had been received this year, while the $24,428,371.25 paid last year was the total of 155,000 returns.
It is estimated by Mrs. Reinecke's office that there are 231,000 persons in the district, which comprises 30 counties, whose incomes are taxable. Only a little more than half of that number had reported last year, but officials believed that a large percentage of those outstanding had placed their returns in the mail. Although the general prosperity of the year was credited for the increase in taxes paid, the returns showed that as appreciable percentage of the gains was due to profitable transactions in the stock market. Thousands of dollars, cashed in the "Hoover boom."
Crowds Thin Out.
Despite the fact that the total figures soared upward during the closing hours, there was little crowding in Mrs. Reinecke's offices in the Federal building.
One Chicago man sent his check for $400,000 and another sent an envelope containing three new shiny furs. Some, seeking to play a joke on the government, or to express their whims against the income tax law, have been known to send their checks for as little as two cents, together with a carefully filled out return blank, saying that they owe just that much.
A total of 18,900 Chicagoans had taken advantage of the help in filling out income tax returns offered at the collector's public service office.

EXPECT A SURPLUS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Early reports on income taxes received by internal revenue collectors throughout the country today gave treasury officials reason to believe that the surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30 will amount to $50,000,000 or more.
Income taxes collected in March of this year amounted to $518,669,000. It is believed by experts at the treasury that this total will be equalled or exceeded during the present month.
A surplus of $36,000,000 was predicted by President Coolidge in transmitting his budget message to congress last December, but a later deficiency of $75,000,000 deficiency appropriation for tax refunds would be necessary threatened to create a deficit.
Income Taxes Gain.
Income taxes, which totaled about $2,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1928, are expected to be exceeded slightly this fiscal year, but miscellaneous taxes and revenues from other sources, including payments received from railroads, will be somewhat lower. The total of all revenues for the fiscal year, up to March 12, has been approximately $2,000,000,000 less than the same period of 1928.
The treasury has been hoping that the prosperity of last year and the pull the treasury "out of a hole" and assure a surplus that otherwise could not be attained. The early returns have borne out this hope, although it is impossible to make accurate calculations until later.

Rush in New York

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Tax offices in New York were swamped with returns today—the first day for payment of the 1928 returns. Mails also brought in thousands of checks.
Returns for the second district, which includes Manhattan, may reach this office this year, it is indicated by the custom house. At least a substantial increase over last year's total of $180,000,000 is expected by the internal revenue department.

MEXICAN FLYERS REPORT REBELS FLEE TORREON

Calles Wins Durango Without Battle.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MEXICO CITY, March 15.—[Special.]—Reoccupation of the city of Culiacan, state of Sinaloa, was reported to President Portes Gil tonight. The city had been taken in the rebel southward drive down the western coast ten days ago. The insurgents were said to have abandoned it this afternoon.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MEXICO CITY, March 15.—[Special.]—Foreign embassies and legations in Washington will have to haul their own liquor from seaport cities or go dry as a result of the passage of the Jones act fixing maximum penalties for transporting liquor at five years in jail.
This was disclosed here today when two truck drivers, employed by a Baltimore transfer firm, were arrested by Washington police while transporting a truck containing sixty cases of liquor from Baltimore to the Siamese legation. The liquor was seized, but later released. The men, however, were charged with transporting liquor and released on bonds of $500 each.

Calles Speeds Up Advance.

Meanwhile Gen. P. Elias Calles, commander in chief of the federal forces, was advancing north at a rapid pace. His capture today of Durango, capital of the state of Durango, without bloodshed cleared the way, and he expected to be in sight of Torreón tomorrow.
Gen. Juan Gilberto Amaya and his force of 1,200 men in their hurried flight from Durango were unable to destroy the Torreón-Durango railway line and the only damage done was some heavy wrecking by Gen. Escobar's men near Torreón when the rebel leader learned of the retreat of Amaya toward Tepic instead of toward Torreón.

Must Transport It Themselves.

Immediately following the arrest of the two drivers, it was revealed that the state department has notified all interested foreign diplomats that liquor for embassies and legations cannot be transported legally by private drivers or employees of trucking companies. The diplomats were told that under the Jones act the only persons immune are members of the staff or accredited employees of the various embassies and legations.

Wait Order to Attack.

While Gen. Calles was pushing north the other four armies under Gen. Juan A. Almazan, Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, Gen. Eulogio Ortiz, and Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, having practically accomplished the enveloping of Torreón, were resting at their bases and awaiting the order to attack.
According to a statement given out at Chapultepec palace, the armies are composed of 25,000 men. They represent the largest unified and disciplined army in the history of Mexican warfare.

Retreat of Rebels a Surprise.

The fall of Durango without battle surprised the federalists, who expected Gen. Amaya to show fight. The rebels left the city during the night and Gen. Calles' advance guard entered early this morning.
Amaya fled toward Parral with 300 men and Gen. Calles' troops are pursuing the remainder of the Durango rebels. Gen. Calles said:
"Tranquillity will again enter this great central part of the republic soon."

DOCTOR'S WIFE DIES OF POISON MEANT FOR DOG

Mrs. Catherine Ochs, 39 years old, wife of Dr. Arthur J. Ochs, well known Oak Park physician, died yesterday afternoon of poison, which she swallowed by mistake in her home at 300 South Maple avenue, Oak Park, on March 7. The poison, Oak Park police learned, had been prepared by Dr. Ochs to give to a police dog.
As the physician finished the potion, the police were told, he was summoned to the front door by a caller's ring and set the glass containing the poison on the table. In his absence, believing the glass held water, drank some of its contents.
She was immediately taken to Garfield Park hospital by her husband. Two days later she apparently was entirely recovered and returned to her home, the police said. On Thursday, however, she suffered a sinking spell and was taken to the Bethany hospital, where she died.

4 Gunmen Get 17 Pouches of Mail on Truck

Four robbers in a green automobile last night held up a mail truck of the Auburn Park postal station at 740 W. Seventy-ninth street and escaped with seventeen pouches of mail after they had kidnapped the driver, Charles Piggott, 6119 South May street, colored, and forced him to drive to the rear of 7819 South Halsted street.
Post Office Inspector E. S. Lyons said it was impossible to estimate the value of the stolen mail last night. This statement indicated that there were no valuables in the shipment except the general run of registered mail contained in a single pouch, because a close check is kept by postal authorities on large consignments of currency or other valuables. Most of the stolen mail was consigned to Wisconsin, Michigan and New York, Lyons said.

$8,000 Reward Offered.

Immediately after the holdup the statutory reward was posted by the postoffice, $2,000 for each robber, or $8,000 in all.
Piggott said he had started from the rear of the postal station to take the mail to the Rock Island railroad depot at 78th street and Fielding avenue when two men jumped on the truck, one with a shotgun and the other with a pistol, and ordered him to drive to the rear of the Halsted street address, where the other two robbers were waiting in an automobile. Piggott was forced to lie on the floor while the bandits transferred the mail sacks to their car.

Little Girl Sees Holdup.

While the robbery was in progress, Piggott said, a little girl came walking down the alley and gazed in wonder. The robbers shooped her away. Police of the Gresham station found the child. She was Margaret Dowd, 11 year old daughter of Mrs. Julia Dowd, 7832 Emerald avenue. The child said she would not be able to identify any of the robbers.

Liquor Is Restored.

The truck was taken to the third precinct station. As soon as possible Miller informed the officials at the Siamese legation. The legation officials called the state department, the department called the police, and as soon as identification of the liquor was complete it was ordered turned over to the Siamese legation at 2300 Kalamazoo road.
The truck, owned by the Davidson Transfer and Storage company, which has hauled embassy and legation liquor for years, was confiscated, but the 1,440 bottles of Scotch, sparkling wines, and champagne were allowed to go to the legation. The two drivers later were released in bonds of $500 each.

DOZEN TOWNS AWASH; 15,000 WITHOUT FOOD

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
National Guard Base, near Elba, Ala., March 15.—[Special.]—Rescue workers reported to a correspondent of the Birmingham Age Herald tonight that five persons, including three white men, are known to be dead and two others are missing in the flood at Elba.
The two reported missing are Mayor R. L. Copper and Chief of Police Russ Paul.
The known white dead are Benjamin Lee, 95, and two unidentified men. The two Negroes lost their lives when they fell from a building where they took refuge.
In addition two Negroes were reported to have drowned near Andalusia.
(Picture on back page.)
Atlanta, Ga., March 15.—[Special.]—A dozen flooded streams tonight had spread over scores of square miles in three southern states.
The waters had inundated half a dozen or more towns, isolated a score of others, marooned at least 15,000 persons, and paralyzed rail and highway traffic.
George Grice, 21, of Geneva, Ala., was drowned late today. An engineer was drowned last night in the cab of his engine and a Negro fireman died in a similar manner in Georgia. A Negro was drowned at Geneva yesterday when his wagon turned over on a flooded highway. Six other men were reported missing.
Three National Guardsmen also were reported missing by the capizing of their boat.
Reaches Into Florida.
While conditions were worst at Elba, with its 4,000 population, apprehensions were felt for the safety of citizens of Geneva, Ala., about 20 miles south, where flooded waters 15 feet deep were reported coursing through the streets. Northwest Florida, that strip of the state along the Gulf of Mexico below Alabama, also was in the grip of the spreading waters. At Carryville, a mill town of 1,500 population on the Choctawhatchee river, the inhabitants were evacuating to Bonifay before a predicted crest of more than the 23 feet record established last year.
Meanwhile, the railways and highways impassable, relief expeditions were handicapped, depending mainly on boats. In some of the towns flooded food supplies were short and no drinking water available, causing grave fears of pestilence.

Victims Take to Roofs and Trees.

Red Cross Starts Work.
The Red Cross took an active hand in the rescue work. James L. Flier, vice chairman of the organization, wired Gov. Graves an offer of relief and stated that three field workers had been ordered to the flood center. Local Red Cross chapters in the vicinity were authorized to extend relief.
Planes from Pensacola flew over Brewton and Flomaton and dropped parcels of food to the beleaguered citizens.
Secretary of War Good directed Maj. Gen. B. B. Davis, commanding the Fourth corps area, to take any steps he deemed necessary to assist the people of the stricken area.
Scores of civilian volunteers joined two companies of National Guard in their rescue work at Elba and tonight

Jail Terms and Fines Given in 'Vote Keg' Case

Ten henchmen, Democrats and Republicans, of Homer K. Galpin, former chairman of the Republican county central committee and a Thompson political leader, were found guilty of vote frauds in the "magic barrel" case by a jury in the court of Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. early this morning. The ten were convicted of using the barrel to cast 401 fraudulent ballots in the 11th precinct of the 27th ward, Galpin stronghold, at the primary election of last April.
The jury reported its verdict at 3 o'clock after deliberating for eight hours. Judge Taylor was summoned from his room in a loop hotel to receive the verdict.
Here Are the Penalties.
The men found guilty and their punishments are as follows:
Frank Whittick, 62 years old, precinct captain—One year in jail and $1,000 fine.
Linder Wilkinson, 58 years old, precinct captain—One year in jail and $1,000 fine.
Frank Smith, 56 years old, former Municipal court bailiff—Six months in jail and $500 fine.
John Hunsinger, 55 years old, janitor of the building in which the polling place was situated—Six months in jail and $500 fine.
Adolph Abernathy, 70 years old, election judge—$500 fine.
Barney Solomon, 24 years old, election judge—$500 fine.
Frank Harklesrod, 23 years old, election judge—$500 fine.
William McLaren, 38 years old, clerk of elections—$500 fine.
Bernard J. Cooney, 40 years old, clerk of elections—$500 fine.

Judge Praises Jury.

After the verdict had been read Judge Taylor thanked the jurors and warmly commended them for their "able performance of duty." After he left the bench Judge Taylor said:
"The jurors displayed remarkable acumen in reaching their verdict. They marked a cleavage in sentencing the men that would have done credit to a judge. It was one of the finest verdicts I have ever known in my experience on the bench."

Charges Against Defendants.

The ten defendants were charged with conspiracy to forge votes, steal ballots, make false election returns, and make false police lists. They were indicted last fall following the investigation into election crimes and frauds conducted by several grand juries under the direction of Frank J. Loesch. Galpin left the city when the inquiry began, and efforts were made in vain to bring him back to testify before the grand jury.

TWO ARE DEAD IN FLAT FIRE; FIFTY FAMILIES ROUTED

Two persons perished, several thrilling rescues were made, and fifty families were driven from their homes shortly after 4 o'clock this morning when fire destroyed a four story apartment building at 4455-4456 Berkeley avenue. Firemen who arrived in response to the first alarm found numerous persons in windows and about to jump. These were carried down ladders to safety. William Beckenridge, an invalid, was carried out in his wheel chair. A high wind was blowing and the flames spread with great rapidity.
The building was an old one. Originally it was a three flat building, but had been reconstructed into apartments of two and three rooms. All the apartments were occupied.
At first it was reported all occupants had escaped the flames, but shortly after 7 o'clock firemen digging in the ruins found the bodies of a man and a woman. The man was identified as a Mr. Newton, and police believe the woman was a Mrs. Hughes, sister of Newton.

Little Girl Sees Holdup.

While the robbery was in progress, Piggott said, a little girl came walking down the alley and gazed in wonder. The robbers shooped her away. Police of the Gresham station found the child. She was Margaret Dowd, 11 year old daughter of Mrs. Julia Dowd, 7832 Emerald avenue. The child said she would not be able to identify any of the robbers.

had evacuated more than 1,500 persons from the town.

An airplane survey of flooded sections of southwest Georgia by an Associated Press correspondent late today disclosed several towns inundated by high waters of the Chattahoochee river.

The crest of the river apparently was at West Point, where water covered the entire business section. In some places it reached to the second stories of houses.

On the Flint river in Georgia, Albany, Montezuma, Newton and West Bainbridge prepared for a recurrence of the floods of ten days ago, the third year, with the highest crest of the year predicted.

Citizens of Newton, a town of 400 population, who had just returned to their homes Wednesday after taking refuge in Camilla for ten days, tonight were again preparing to evacuate. West Bainbridge and Albany also were preparing for an inundation.

Death Signals Seen.

Montgomery, Ala., March 15.—[U. P.]—Planes returning here late today from the flood area reported that while flying over Brewton, Ala., residents exhibited the letter "K," which indicated deaths in that area. How many lost their lives in this district is not known. The town is completely cut off from the outside world.

Aviators explained that the letter "K" was the visual code word signifying that persons had been killed. The sign was made by a Boy Scout troop after a squadron of National Guard aviators had dropped instructions as to the visual code used by aviators.

Mississippi Still Rising.

Quincy, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—The stage of the Mississippi here tonight reached seventeen feet, a rise of two feet since last night, and there was no indication when the crest will be reached.

With Des Moines and Skunk rivers in Iowa pouring in torrents, and the ice melting in Lake Keokuk, it is thought the crest will not be reached until next week some time. Fully two inches of rain has fallen today all over this section and, driven by a strong northeast wind, has weakened the levees and dikes along the drainage districts. Lowlands in Iowa, Missouri, and Illinois are flooded. The Des Moines river rose a foot an hour yesterday evening. The Mark drainage district across the river, where a hundred feet of levee was washed out last November, is the most critical place so far. The dike has been built, but has not had time to settle. It is here that another break is expected. Bebee creek has overflowed near Kinderhook, and the Slab, on route 36, is five feet under water. Springfield and Jacksonville have ceased operating. It is thought that the river will reach the nineteen foot stage by tomorrow night.

Rockford Partially Flooded.

Rockford, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Rock river was two inches higher today than any other known local record. A further rise of a few inches is threatened before the flood reaches its crest, which was looked for tonight. Store basements were flooded, several factories forced to suspend and homes in the southern part of the city marooned. Water backed up into the basement of the public library building.

Highways south and west of city are submerged. Railway service between Rockton and Freeport suspended.

Use Boat for Funeral.

Winnetka, Ill., March 15.—[U. P.]—Swollen streams in northern Illinois were the cause of the first funeral held by boat in this village.

Between the village and the cemetery lies a valley. Flood waters of the last week had swept into the valley, making crossing impossible by means other than boat. Thursday Fred Burley was buried after the cortege moved by boat from one side of the valley to the other, transferring the coffin from a flatboat to a wagon.

Wisconsin Towns Menaced.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—[U. P.]—Wisconsin streams, swollen by premature spring freshets and jammed with ice, were still spread over acres of countryside today.

The inhabitants of the Indian village of Odanah, 75 miles from Superior, were preparing to leave their homes. Barron and Birchwood, approximately forty miles from Superior, already are flooded.

In the Lake Winnebago district, the opening of 17 sluice gates in the government dam at Menasha has kept the water below the flood level.

Pond Du Lac, at the southern end of Lake Winnebago, reported the Pond Du Lac river subsiding slightly. The Sheboygan river was also reported to be receding after ice jams had been broken up by dynamite.

Still further to the south the Milwaukee river was blocked by ice jams that caused it to inundate a large section and drove more than 40 families to higher ground.

The Kickapoo river was still rising rapidly. Service on the Milwaukee road through the valley has been discontinued.

Both Prairie Du Chien and La Crosse reported the Mississippi rising at the rate of about a foot a day, while the Wisconsin reached the four foot stage at Bridgeport today.

BEAUTY OPERATORS FIGHT EFFORTS TO MAKE THEM BARBERS

Confronted with the necessity of learning to shave a man's face when they never expected to flourish a razor over any male countenance, or of installing a male barber in every beauty shop, women beauty culturists of the state went into a huddle last night at the Hotel Sherman, confessing that the barbers had beaten them at their own game—hair cutting—and prepared for the legislative fray. Hundreds attended the meeting of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association.

By a ruling obtained from the attorney general, according to State Senator Roy Woods, counsel for the association, the barbers have made it imperative that the entire routine of the barber shop be learned by a beauty operator if she intends to cut hair. So unless the beauty operators comply they will be refused a license to cut hair, as they have done formerly under a "gentleman's agreement" with their barber colleagues. This, naturally, means that the entire feminine hair cutting trade is forced by the state law into the barber shop. Senator Woods was authorized to prepare an amendment that will protect the privacy of the beauty shops and retain their feminine hair cutting clientele.

GUNMAN IS HELD AFTER ROBBERY IN SOUTH SIDE HOME

Albert Plank, 21 years old, 1547 South Hamlin avenue, was held by Woodlawn police last night following his arrest and identification as the robber who entered the home of Max Schwartz, 6042 Champlain avenue, early yesterday and escaped with $1,600 in jewelry and money after menacing the family with a pistol.

Schwartz, his wife and their four year old son, Marvin, were asleep when Plank entered through a window and awakened them by shouting. Mrs. H. Kalman, Mrs. Schwartz's mother, who was sleeping in another room, heard the noise and quietly called the police. After seizing the money and jewelry Plank pointed his gun at the child and then at Schwartz. He snapped the trigger twice, warning Schwartz that if he followed there were four loaded chambers in the gun. Then he fled.

A police squad under Lieut. Michael Kelly reached the apartment house in time to see Plank jump into a taxi cab. They captured him after a chase.

HOOVER SPEAKS TO ASSOCIATED PRESS APRIL 22

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—President Hoover's first speaking engagement and probably his first appearance as President out of Washington will be in New York on April 22 when he attends the annual meeting of the Associated Press, it was learned today.

MOTHER OF 3 IS CAUGHT IN NET OF JONES LAW

Is Found with Liquor Hidden in Auto.

A mother of three children who was six months ago, deserted by her husband and has since been selling liquor to earn her livelihood, was arrested yesterday, and if government prosecution is successful will be Chicago's first woman victim of the drastic Jones dry law. Under the new statute she would be liable to five years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

The woman is Mrs. Cecilia Black, 35 years old, 3100 Fillmore street. When arrested, police found a five gallon can of liquor concealed among other packages on the rear of her automobile. Assistant United States District Attorney William Parillo announced the federal grand jury will be asked to indict Mrs. Black on a charge of transporting liquor, one of the five counts changed from misdemeanors to felonies under the Jones act.

Mother Taken to Jail.

Investigators last night found Mrs. Black's three children, Harry, 12; Morris, 8; and Sarah, 15, in the squalid home on Fillmore street. Sarah was acting as mother to her two brothers. Mrs. Black was in the county jail, having been unable to post the $1,000 bond set in the afternoon when she was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Another hearing will be held today.

Sarah told of how her father, an egg candler, had deserted them six months ago, and despite efforts of her mother in court to gain financial support, had fled from the city. Until reporters solved her problem Sarah was wondering how she would obtain money for car fare to the loop today when evidence in her mother's case is presented.

It was intimated by the children that Mrs. Black had been unable to make enough money selling honey to care for her brood and that, at the suggestion of a neighbor, she had turned to making liquor.

Weeps at Hearing.

Mrs. Black wept when she was arraigned before Commissioner Walker. "I didn't have any money," she said, "and my husband left me six months ago, so I had to earn something to keep the children. That's why I had to do this."

The woman was arrested by Patrolmen William Curran and George J. Johnson of the South Chicago station in front of 8423 Burley avenue. They became suspicious of her slow driving, stopped her, and examined the sedan carefully. The can of liquor was wrapped and stowed beneath bundles of groceries on the floor of the car. When informed that she was under arrest, according to the policemen, Mrs. Black offered them $200 if they would forget about her case. They refused, she said, and took her to the United States court.

There she was questioned by Assistant Prosecutor Parillo and claimed that she had found the liquor. Later she said she "did nothing but take care of the children," which was taken as an admission of guilt. Mr. Parillo immediately asked for a warrant for her arrest.

DRELL, KIDNAP VICTIM, TALKS 2 HOURS, BUT FAILS TO AID POLICE

Joseph B. Drell, wealthy cigar store owner at 641 West Madison street and long identified by police with west side gambling activities, visited the detective bureau yesterday to tell Deputy Police Commissioner Stages his experiences while held by kidnapers for ransom on Thursday. But Stages, after a two hours talk, said Drell had given him little help toward catching the three kidnapers. Drell continued to insist, however, that he had not paid the $50,000 ransom demanded.

Drell told Stages that the kidnapers drove him at a bit after capturing him at Monroe street and Spaulding avenue at 9 o'clock Thursday morning and then transferred him to another automobile. The kidnapers informed him that he had made "a pile of jack" in the gambling racket and must pay "fifty grand." Drell said he was wearing $1,500 worth of jewelry, but the kidnapers did not take that.

"Pretty soon," Drell said, "one fellow bought a newspaper and saw the story of my kidnaping. This seemed to scare them and they turned me loose."

Arthur Burrage Farwell, head of the Chicago Law and Order league, said yesterday that he had reported Drell's cigar store many times to police as a gambling establishment.

Loss in Check Robbery Paid by Insurance Co.

Two robbers on March 6 held up a messenger of the First National bank of Joliet on a Rock Island train and escaped with a match containing $108,520 worth of non-negotiable checks collected from Chicago mail order houses for deposit in the Joliet institution. The checks had been written out by customers in payment for merchandise, the firms having credited the payments to their patrons. The checks were insured against loss with the Standard Accident Insurance company, which made good the loss yesterday, according to Sherman J. Scheidt, vice president of the banking institution.

Commenting on the transaction, Mr. Scheidt declared the insurance company had paid on the understanding that the amount of any of the stolen checks found or those with existing duplicates would be refunded to the insurance company. Many of the lost checks had duplicates, the banker stated, while it was believed the robbers had thrown many away when they discovered they were not negotiable.

RAID MERCANTILE CLUB, SEIZE RUM AT SPRINGFIELD

Many Legislators on Organization's Rolls.

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Prohibition enforcement agents today visited the Springfield Mercantile club, arrested John Branch, the steward, opened a number of lockers and seized a quantity of liquor. It came from five private lockers, and its ownership has not been established.

A number of the members of the club were in the room when the raid was staged. It did not disturb the after dinner card and checker games or interfere with the reception of the radio program. When the agents appeared, Branch asked if they had a warrant to search the lockers, the contents of which they had demanded.

Steward Is Arrested.

One of the party called up the office of James A. Eaton, prohibition enforcement agent, and under his instructions the search was made. In the meantime a warrant for the steward was obtained. His grave bond of $2,500 for his appearance before United States Commissioner W. A. Rugg.

John Harper, chief assistant in the office of the deputy prohibition administrator, said tonight that the raid uncovered some 25 gallons of liquor, including whisky, gin, alcohol and rum.

The Mercantile club is one of the oldest in the city and its membership includes county and city officials, members of the legislature, members of the bar and other professional men, as well as prominent merchants.

Many Judges Members.

Judge Charles Briggie of the Circuit court is a member, and judges in other parts of the state have special memberships. Mayor J. Emil Smith usually has his noonday luncheon at the club. The head of the city's civil service commission, E. J. Flynn, is the club's president. Deputy City Treasurer Charles Schuppe is its secretary. On its directorate are City Commissioner H. B. Luers, County Clerk Oscar Becker, and other locally prominent men.

SON OF PRESIDENT SUICIDE.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, March 15.—[U. P.]—Medardo Mondaca, 23 year old son of the president of Nicaragua, ended his life today with poison.

Charles Franz, colored, 57 years old, 2824 Lehigh court, died at the county hospital yesterday as a result of having frozen his feet on Jan. 24. His body was taken to the county morgue.

ATTACK DRY LAW IN COURT, IS PLAN IN RHODE ISLAND

Introduce Bill in the Assembly.

Providence, R. I., March 15.—[Special.]—Rhode Island's legislative struggle against the 18th amendment would be renewed in the Supreme court of the United States under the terms of a resolution introduced in the general assembly today by Representative William F. Fox, Republican, which directs State's Attorney General Charles P. Simon to seek a ruling from the Supreme court bench on whether the amendment has ever been validly enacted.

The resolution calls upon the attorney general to seek the court's opinion on two questions:

"Whether thirty-six state legislatures have validly enacted this amendment and whether they have a right to do so."

Reestablish Constitution.

The purpose of the appeal, according to the resolution, is "to reestablish the constitution of the United States in the hearts and minds of American citizens."

It is the contention of Russell Richmond, Providence attorney, who prepared the Fox resolution, that special machinery was provided in the constitution for the enactment of amendments affecting the liberty of the individual, namely, an alternative method of ratifying amendments by conventions of thirty-six states instead of by action of thirty-six state legislatures.

Mr. Richmond has been working for more than a year on the preparation of this thesis. During the entire time he has been retained by a client whose identity he has refused to divulge, but whom he describes as a "rich, disinterested party."

First Case in 1921.

Once before the state of Rhode Island came to the defense of the rights of the individual in a protest against the eighteenth amendment.

In 1921 Attorney General Herbert Rice, in behalf of the people of the state, demanded a Supreme court ruling on the constitutionality of the amendment on the ground that the people were being deprived "of their liberty of self-government in the management and conduct of their domestic affairs as a community, which it was the very purpose of the constitution of the United States to secure to them."

FORBIDS CO-EDS TO TALK WITH MALE STUDENTS

Detroit, Mich., March 15.—[U. P.]—The campus of the University of Detroit was stirred today by an announcement by the president, the Rev. Fr. John P. McNichols, that the 50 co-eds enrolled in the university would be expelled if they were detected conversing with any of the 2,000 male students on the university grounds.

The ban on conversation was defended vigorously by John B. Malley, associate editor of the Vanderbilt student paper. Malley's comment said: "The president's action is the greatest thing to come to U. of D. in years. The co-eds really are the studios and scholarly students of the college with their literary tastes. . . . It is the greatest step forward in the history of education."

A co-ed reply was: "One Malley hates girls is because he can't dance. He's asked me to teach him now. He can't dance and the girls can't be annoyed with him."

HOOVER ORDERS QUIZ OF ALL OIL DRILLING GRANTS

May Cancel Many Present Permits.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Review of outstanding oil development permits with a view to cancellation where conditions have not been fully met was announced today by President Hoover as another step toward carrying out his conservation policy.

"Not only do we propose to stop the issue of development permits over public domain and other lands in control of the government, which permits constitute the first step in the leasing of oil resources, but Secretary Wilbur proposes to review all outstanding permits to determine their status," said President Hoover in a formal announcement in reply to inquiries.

Holders Obeying Law Safe.
"Where holders are complying with the law they need have no anxiety as to retrospective action, but some 34,000 permits for oil drilling have been issued since the leasing law was passed in President Wilson's administration. Of these, some 20,000 are outstanding at the present time. Under these permits drilling must proceed in definite stages under time limits. It is obvious that no large proportion of 20,000 oil wells are being drilled on lands under these permits. Thus many persons have not complied with the requirements of the law and in effect have abandoned their rights."

"I have approved the recommendation of Secretary Wilbur to appoint a departmental board representing the different bureaus interested, which will review the whole situation."

No Controversy in Sight.
The President took exception to published statements that his action would open a controversy in which the far western states would be arrayed against him. Being a far westerner himself and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur also coming from the far west, the President evidently wants it understood that this administration has no intention of acting in opposition to the wishes of that section of the country.

"Being fairly familiar with the sentiment of our western states, I can at once refute the statement that the people of the west object to conservation of oil resources," said Mr. Hoover. "They know that there is a limit to oil supplies and that the time will come when they and the nation will need this oil much more than it is needed now."

Assurance that his conservation policy has support in the oil industry was given Mr. Hoover during the day by Ralph Arnold, a producer. A meeting of oil producers in the midcontinent field at Houston, Tex., is now working out plans for cooperation with the administration, Mr. Arnold said.

BOY CONFESSES KILLING TWO MEN IN STEALING AUTO

James Saffron, 15 years old, one of seven boys held at the Hyde Park police station last night, confessed that he had stolen automobiles since he was 14 and that in one of his first thefts he ran down and killed two men at Greenwood avenue and East 47th street. Police checked their records and found that the victims were Nathaniel Bowditch, 80 years old, an inventor, 4624 Greenwood avenue, and Filippo Greco, 45 years old, a street cleaner, 729 South State street.

"You see, it was one of my first jobs and I was excited," said the boy. "In my hurry to get away with the machine I knocked over a couple of old fellows who were in the way."

James, whose home is at 914 Oakwood avenue, confessed five burglaries and about forty automobile thefts. The other youths, implicated by James, are: Edward Weinstock, 19 years old, 4559 Lake Park avenue; David Walsh, 20 years old, 6730 Jeffery avenue; Herbert Coleby, 18 years old, 4204 Lake Park avenue; Earl Powers, 18 years old, 4221 Lake Park avenue; Harley Fox, 19 years old, 1041 East 42d place; and Clarence Morris, 20 years old, 6339 Langley avenue.

Two Women Locked in Hotel Closet and Robbed

A burglar in the Belmont hotel, 3155 Sheridan road, locked two women in a clothes closet last night and escaped with jewelry estimated at $1,000. Mrs. W. C. Pfeiffer, wife of a wealthy plumbing contractor, entered her suite at about 5 p. m. with a companion whose name was given to the police as Mrs. Stribel. They discovered a youth ransacking a bureau where Mrs. Pfeiffer had secreted jewelry and a purse. At the point of a revolver the women were backed into a clothes closet and the door was locked. Mr. Pfeiffer released the couple when he returned home from his office an hour later.

BROKER AND HIS WIFE DISAPPEAR AFTER STABBING

Police Trace Auto of Woman Victim.

The mysterious knifing of a young woman in the apartment of Paul R. Ellsworth, Chicago broker, at 232 East Walton place on Thursday evening, took on new aspects last night as police sought Ellsworth's wife, who is accused of making the attack with a penknife. Both the broker and his wife are reported to have disappeared.

The police learned, it was said, that the victim of the penknife, who at first gave her name as Mildred Rogers, 28 years old, 1232 Jarvis avenue, is in reality Miss Mildred Edwards of 842 Lafayette parkway. Last night at Hennrich hospital, where she is recovering from a knife cut on her face, the young woman admitted her identity. Her name was traced, the police said, through an automobile license.

Trace Automobile License.
According to a doorman at the apartment building where Ellsworth resides, Miss Edwards arrived at the broker's home on Tuesday night in a green automobile, which was still parked in front of the building on Thursday night when the knifing occurred. The car bore Illinois license plates No. 593-462, which were issued to M. E. Edwards at the Lafayette parkway address, the police learned.

Miss Edwards was described by the doorman as a brunette. Mrs. Ellsworth, the police said they were told, is a blonde.

Although she was arrested in the apartment with the wounded woman on Thursday night and charged with the assault, the wife could not be found yesterday. She failed to appear for arraignment in the Chicago avenue court. Further mystery entered the investigation when Ellsworth's first wife, who was divorced from him seven years ago, told the police she did not know that her former husband had remarried. The first Mrs. Ellsworth is living with her three small children at 237 East Delaware place.

Falls to Appear in Court.
When the case of the second Mrs. Ellsworth was called before Judge Joseph L. McCarthy yesterday an appearance for her was not made.

Mr. Wetten signed a $1,000 bond for Mrs. Ellsworth's release from police custody on Thursday night. The case was continued to March 22.

Attorney Wetten refused to disclose the maiden name of Ellsworth's second wife or the date of the marriage. He stated that the broker had intended to announce the marriage this week.

Mr. Wetten declared that Miss Edwards had gone to see Mrs. Ellsworth on business Thursday night and had refused to leave when he asked her to go. When Mrs. Ellsworth appeared, Mr. Wetten said, Miss Edwards attacked her and Mrs. Ellsworth struck back with the penknife.

Body of Missing Woman Is Found in Wolf Lake

Workers operating a dredge in Wolf lake near Whiting, Ind., yesterday discovered the body of a woman identified as Miss Minnie Karsten, 40 years old, 341 Freeman avenue, Hammond, who has been missing from her home since Nov. 17, 1918. Her father, John Karsten, a retired farmer of Hammond, said his daughter for some time before her disappearance had been grieving.

FISHERMAN DIES IN LAKE; SWEEP OFF UNCLE SAM

The evil spirit which seems to hover above the fishing launch Uncle Sam when it sets out to sea claimed the life of Samuel Christenson, 35 year old fisherman, in Lake Michigan off Waukegan yesterday. Christenson, who was married and lived at 1818 West Jackson boulevard, was swept to his death in the icy waters of the lake while on a fishing trip in the craft.

Last week Nels Jensen, his wife, Anna, and brother, Emmett, escaped a like fate when the boat was caught in a terrific storm on the lake and drifted for seventy-two hours before it was able to limp into port. While resting up at the home of Mrs. Nancy Omondson, 2231 Oakdale avenue, owner of the launch, after their experience, the Jensens met Christenson. He agreed to pilot the craft back to Waukegan for them.

Upon his arrival in Waukegan last Saturday he agreed to work with the Jensens in their fishing trade and signed up as a member of the crew. Shortly after dawn yesterday, Christenson, Jensen, and Jensen's brother set out to pick up their night lines and set their nets. While at work Christenson was blown overboard and despite rescue efforts of the Jensens was drowned.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

COOK CRIMINAL BENCH ASKS FOR NEW JURY LAW

Files Petition to Permit Court Instructions.

BY PARKE BROWN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—A voice from the grave was called upon as the only argument necessary in a plea filed here today by the eleven judges of the Criminal Court of Cook county for changes in the statutes they believe will open the way for better enforcement of the law.

Judge Frank D. Comerford presented to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson and left at the offices of the presiding officers of the two houses of the assembly petitions signed by himself and his ten associates. The petitions urged that the legislature modify the jury system so that the judge shall be the sole arbiter of the law, and shall be authorized to deliver oral instructions to the jury. At present, the jury is judge of both the law and the fact, and the court is restricted to the issuance of written instructions submitted by counsel.

Present Cartwright Article.
In support of this plea the eleven judges refrained from argument on their own part, and presented only an extract from an article published in 1918 by the late James H. Cartwright, who served two decades as a justice of the Illinois Supreme court. In allusion to the crippling of the judiciary by the present law, it was entitled "Present, but Taking No Part."

"We adopt his views as our argument," said the brief preface to the actual petition.

The one additional force added to this argument was this quotation from President Hoover:

"Reform of our whole judicial and enforcement system has been advocated for years by statesmen, judges, and bar associations. To consider these evils, to find their remedy is the sore necessity of our time."

The quotation from the article by the late Justice Cartwright follows: "The first constitution of the state of Illinois provided that the right of trial by jury should remain inviolate. That provision was intended to preserve and maintain in its legal force and effect the right to a trial of issues of fact by judge and jury as enjoyed at the common law, and as still preserved and enjoyed in England and in the courts of the United States and of those states where it has not been altered by constitution or statute."

"The first inroad upon the right of trial by jury which the constitution had declared should remain inviolate was made by section 27 of the practice act of 1827, which provided that the court instructing the jury should instruct only as to the law. That limitation upon the common law confined the judge to the duty of setting forth the law applicable to the case without expressing or intimating any opinion as to the weight of the evidence or the credibility of the witnesses."

Could Sum Up Evidence.
"It did not, however, prevent the judge from stating to the jury the testimony with its legal effect and bearing upon the issues and indicating its particular application to the case under the rules of law. The court might still sum up the evidence according to the established practice.

"The next legislative enactment, which practically deprived the court of all participation in the trial in determining the issues of fact, was brought about in 1847, the statute enacted providing that no judge of the Circuit court should instruct the petit jury in any case, civil or criminal, unless the instructions were reduced to writing and that he should write on the margin of the instructions given the word 'given' and on those refused the word 'refused'."

Courts' Powers Curtailed.

"To make assurance doubly sure the act further provided that the judge should in no case, after the instructions were given, orally qualify, modify, or in any manner explain the same to the jury."

"The most unfortunate result of the statute is seen in the administration of the criminal law. The judge must be a mere auditor of the abuse of the prosecutor and witnesses for the people and of appeals to every possible prejudice and passion that could influence jurors and even the moral crime against the law of contending that a valid law of the state is obsolete, not applicable to local conditions where the offense against the law has been committed and contrary to the views and wishes of the people of that locality."

"He is to be present at the trial, but to take no part. The result is to spread through the community a disregard and contempt for all law, of which the community will certainly reap the fruits."

Swanson Will Be Given Masonic Degree Today

BAR ASSOCIATION OPPOSES CLOSING OF CIVIL COURTS

Frowns on Plan to Rush Criminal Cases.

The Chicago Bar association decided yesterday to oppose the plan to suspend civil trials in order to permit all forty-four Superior and Circuit judges to devote themselves to disposing of the 1,800 pending criminal cases.

The decision was announced by President Sidney S. Gorham following an executive meeting of the board of governors, which was addressed by Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court, Chief Justice Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court and Chief Chancellor Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court.

The bar association governors said they would favor the transfer of as many as five of the judges from the civil to the criminal division, providing that this number could materially alleviate the congested criminal dockets.

Judge Feinberg argued—and others supported his argument—that addi-

SUBCOMMITTEE KILLS PROPOSAL TO EXTEND DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

Extension of daylight saving time an extra three weeks in April was voted down by a council subcommittee yesterday. Three of the five members of the subcommittee were present at the public hearing, which was called to discuss the merits of the extension. They were Ald. Jacob M. Arvey (24th), John J. Coughlin (1st), and George Self (35th).

An organized opposition was present at the hearing and argued against the extension at some length. Letters from persons who were in favor of the extra hour of sunlight were not read, although a request had been made for such an expression. Attempts to read the letters were halted by Ald. John Toman (23d), author of the amendment providing for the change, who, although not a member of the subcommittee, shouted "No" when the clerk asked if the letters should be read. He did not try to stop the reading of letters opposing the extension which followed.

One of the expressions choked off was addressed to Toman and read as follows: "I heartily commend your action and trust you are able to convince the council that this change should be made."

Additional judges will be of no avail as long as State's Attorney John A. Swanson's office continues its policy of extreme reluctance in recommending the waiver of felonies. Mr. Swanson was invited to attend another meeting of the bar group, to be held at noon today.

The judiciary advisory council, headed by Chief Justice Frederic B. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court, met in the afternoon and announced that it had not changed its conclusion that the remedy for weaknesses in our courts lies in modernizing the procedure, rather than in employing additional jurists.

Willard L. King, chairman of the bar association's committee on amendments of the law, which met with the council, expressed the same opinion. "When an old locomotive breaks down, it doesn't do any good to increase the crew in the cabin," he said.

Council Approves Bill.

At this joint session the council approved a bill prepared for the legislature by the bar association committee to give the Supreme court, rather than the legislature, authority to make rules for the courts' procedure. The council approved six other bills on the bar's legislative program, but with reservations for certain amendments. Besides Chief Justice De Young, the advisory body consists of Chief Chancellor Sullivan, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, former State's Attorney John J. Healy, and Amos C. Miller, former president of the Chicago Bar association.

The judiciary advisors approved a bill providing for the initiation of criminal prosecution in most cases by complaints signed by the state's attorney, rather than by grand jury indictments. An amendment, proposed by the council, would grant a preliminary hearing before an examining magistrate in cases brought by the prosecutor, before the case is called in the trial court.

The council endorsed a bill to permit the judge to examine the prospective jurors and to instruct the jury orally, but suggested that these changes might be incorporated in new court rules, instead of by statute.

The advisors approved the principle behind a bill to pay counsel appointed to represent indigent defendants in capital cases, but proposed that the appointment of a public defender, such as New York's, would be a more efficacious method of preserving the rights of paupers in criminal cases.

A bill to make the trial jurist judge of the law as well as the fact in criminal cases, as well as in civil suits, was ratified by the council with the proviso that juries should retain their jurisdiction over the law in libel suits. It was pointed out that libel differs from other offenses in that the issue is not who committed the crime, but whether a crime was committed.

Differ on One Bill.

The bar committee agreed to all of the changes proposed by the council with the exception of provisions for the bail bond bill. They were unanimous in favoring those provisions that require the bondsman to schedule his property with legal descriptions and subject him to prosecution for perjury for making a false schedule. But the court advisors were opposed to making a defaulted bond a lien against the scheduled realty.

Another joint session will be held on Monday to take up the legislative proposals of the judiciary advisory council, which include constitutional amendments separating Cook county's courts from the others of the state. The council yesterday announced its opposition to the pending bill to create a new court for Chicago, advisors contending that a new system of administration and new rules for procedure are needed, rather than new courts.

ARAGON

Let's dance tonight. Let's have dinner some place first, and then we'll go . . . shall it be the Trianon tonight, or the Aragon?

Starts about half past eight, both places. Yes, I know we've been economizing; but it's so little for an evening of such fun! A dollar and a quarter for me and seventy-five cents for you.

They dance till 2 a. m. Saturdays. We'll get all the dancing we want . . . make a full evening of it. Shall we? And you say which—the Trianon . . . or the Aragon . . .

The Trianon is on the South Side, Cottage Grove Ave. at 62nd St.
The Aragon is on Lawrence near Broadway, in Uptown Chicago.

3 CENT GAS TAX BILL RUNS INTO FOES DOWNSTATE

Dixon Seeks 2 Cent Levy,
1 Cent to County.

Only 3.68% of Illinois motor license fees are spent in the Chicago area.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

Rumblings of discontent over the provisions of the Emmerson 3 cent gasoline tax, which comes up for passage in the house at Springfield next Wednesday, were manifested downstate yesterday in the form of a call from Dixon to the Chicago Motor club for an interpretation of the bill before a massmeeting to be held there today.

According to officials of the Dixon chamber of commerce who communicated with the club that community is desirous of going on record as opposing the Emmerson measure on the ground that a two-thirds division of the estimated revenues to the state and one-third to the counties will be not only unjust to the counties but will produce an unnecessary and too large a revenue for the normal activities of the state highway department.

Two Cent Tax Favored.

It appears to be the sentiment in Dixon that a 2 cent tax, equally divided between state and county, would be a sufficient burden for motorists and at the same time would provide ample funds for the state to proceed with the widening to 40 feet of state highways extending out from centers of population, as well as to do all necessary work of construction on the bond issue system.

Officials of the Dixon chamber informed the motor club management that not only would Dixon interests be represented at the protest meeting but that a delegation from Sterling and perhaps groups from as far west as Morrison, Fulton and possibly Rock Island would be present. The Dixon men indicated that resolutions would be adopted asking Gov. Emmerson to intercede in the proceedings to the extent of requesting the general assembly to provide for reduction of the license fee charges in case the gas tax bill goes through in its present form.

Protests from Other Cities.

The motor club announced yesterday that it had received protests against the bill in its present form from several cities in which branches of the club are maintained, and that possibly protest meetings would be held in other centers if definite calls are made.

"Dixon is probably more interested in the widening of state highways than any other interior city," said J. C. Hess of Dixon. "No. 6 is terribly congested with traffic for the 100 miles between here and Chicago nearly all year round. But there is a feeling here that the state does not have to impose a 3 cent tax to get the widening done. A two cent tax evenly divided between state and county will do it. Or, if the tax is to be 3 cents, the license fee ought to be cut to $2 or $3. We feel that we should go on record with this view. And we do not believe that Cook county is alone in the opposition to the present bill."

To Ask Governor's Help.

According to Mr. Hess, it will be the aim of the Dixon meeting to make a formal request to the governor for help in getting an independent measure through the assembly providing for the reduction of the motor license fee in case the 3 cent bill is successful.

Considerable speculation exists among Cook county opponents of the Emmerson tax law as to whether the governor will sign the bill, providing it is passed as per schedule next week, or let it become a law without his signature. It is pointed out that by withholding his signature the governor will place the responsibility of the added tax burden on the senate and house, so far as the record goes, and the position of Gov. Emmerson that he would not meddle with the measure in the assembly or elsewhere will be sustained in appearance.

JOKE BLAMED FOR WOUNDED VET'S SUICIDE

Joking friends who accused him of shooting himself in the hand during the war in order to get out of combat was ascribed as the motive for the suicide yesterday of Hugo Ferdinand Lindholm, 34 year old war veteran of Davenport, Ia. Lindholm, who was engaged in the tailoring business with his father, threw himself from a seventh story window of the Pershing hotel, Sixty-fourth street and Cottage Grove avenue, leaving a note stating that he could no longer endure the stories of his alleged cowardice. Con Lindholm, the dead man's brother, and his sister, Mrs. Fred Carlson, 5738 Wentworth avenue, testified that their brother had a clean record as a soldier and was honorably discharged after spending many months in a hospital in France from shell shock and a wound in the left hand. A verdict of suicide while insane from shell shock was returned by the jury.

seventy-four years can't be told in seventy-four words

Since 1855, when the grandfather of the present head of Baird & Warner opened a real estate office in the sprawling frontier village of Chicago, too much has happened in this city to adequately describe in a few words.

Those who read this and can remember back that far will be very few. And of the present generation, not many, unless they look it up, will be able to even name who was President at that time.

But all that while—from the days when Franklin Pierce was President, to now—the vision of a greater Chicago territory, the belief of the first Baird, and the ability to help others see it and guide them conservatively and safely in real estate, real estate investments and homes, has been carried on by the three successive generations of Bairds—never behind, but like the founder of the house, ahead of the times, far-seeing, though conservative.

The annual Spring rental list of Baird & Warner is the home-seeker's authoritative guide book. Each year sees a greater demand for the use of this directory. It includes this year—as it does every year—a list of the most attractive and desirable homes and apartments for rent on the North Side of Chicago, and along the North Shore. Ask for this list by mail, or it can be procured at the main office or any of the Baird & Warner branch offices.

ELEVATED AUTO ROAD PROJECT WINS WEST SIDE

Enthusiasm Is Voiced at Massmeeting.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

More than 2,500 west side residents, crowded into the Dreamland hall, dined and discussed the proposition for building a through elevated highway from the west side to the city limits last night. The close of the discussion which was upon economic features and the opportunity offered the west side to advance forward in the matter of traffic facilities, formal resolutions were adopted endorsing the project and pledging cooperation in carrying it out.

The gathering, which met in the midst of a driving rainstorm, set a record as a public demonstration for such an enterprise for the west side. Dr. Louis L. Emmerson and Congressman James Igoe, who had been invited to address the meeting, sent messages of encouragement for the project but regrets for their absence.

Robertson Describes Plan.
Dr. John Dill Robertson, president of the west park commission and leader in the movement for the elevated motorway, outlined the purpose of the meeting and said that a program of speakers had been arranged to give both those favoring the project and those opposing it a clear field for discussion. The opposition was voiced by Manuel Goldberger of the Crawford Avenue Taxpayers' association, who decried activities which would tend to increase taxes in the district.

"The unanimous opinion of the west park's engineering advisory council," Dr. Robertson said, "a group made up of fifteen eminent engineers who have carefully studied this problem, is that a $50 foot elevated roadway can be built, extending from the Chicago river to the city limits, at a cost not to exceed $15,000,000, exclusive of property damages."

"Experience with the elevation of Wacker drive and Michigan avenue proves that enhancement of property values would more than overcome this investment within a few years. The estimate is not only verified by the engineers' committee, but a construction company actually has guaranteed to build such a structure considerably under this figure."

Chance For West Side.
Speakers who favored the project said the west side has been neglected in public improvements and the motor highway offered an opportunity to lift the area out of the doldrums.

Walter E. Bacon, west side business leader, presided and talks were made by Charles J. McGowan of the west park board, E. E. Gore, former president of the Chicago association of commerce; Edgar S. Nethercut, secretary of the Western Society of Engineers; Representative E. M. Overland, father of the enabling bill in the assembly; D. A. Roberts, attorney for the park board; Michael J. Zimmer, warden of Cook county hospital; Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the Chicago plan commission; Charles A. Snyder of the Chicago Motor club and Ray Elliott, president of the Midwest Athletic club.

"The west side stands at the crossroads," Mr. McGowan said. "Either it must take this opportunity to take the leadership in traffic facilities in the Chicago area or it must deteriorate and gradually drop back to a backward number among the city's divisions. With such an improvement as this the west side may easily take the position to which it is entitled in Chicago. If it is abandoned there can be no question that we will lose all we have gained in the past few years of progress."

In making the engineers' report Mr. Nethercut said: "The north and south sides have contributed to solution of the traffic problem and now the great west side proposes to do its part to contribute to the general improvement of intercommunication between parts of the city. We have boulevards and one way streets, but no matter how much capacity we may have on ground level thoroughfares the actual capacity is at the crossings with other streets."

"It is now proposed to avoid crossings; to separate traffic east and west from north and south. Our commission has studied the plan from these broad premises and believes the project feasible."

"I feel, and believe the park commission agrees, that the citizens of our district should be encouraged to proceed with this valuable improvement."

Replying to objection on the ground that the midwest side would not benefit by a through highway, C. A. Snyder of the motor club pointed out the development now going on in Michigan avenue north of the river.

"Here is an outlet primarily for through traffic to the far north shore and south side," he said. "Yet property values on this artery and adjacent streets have literally pyramided in the last five years."

OMAHA MAN WHO REFUSED $20,000 LEGACY IS DEAD

James M. Hough, 83, who refused a $20,000 legacy bequeathed by Marvin Hough, former president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, died here today.

The money was offered as a trust fund by Mr. Hough, a brother-in-law of Hough, but the latter considered his income of $185 a month sufficient on which to live.

Mr. Hough lived simply at a hotel here, and desired that his departure from this world would be simple also, but this wish may not be granted. Tomorrow morning Marvin Hough, a nephew, is expected to arrive. He asked that funeral plans be held up pending arrival.

Hough was born near Rock Island, Ill., of wealthy parents. He and Hough were working for the Chicago and Alton railroad when the latter married Hough's sister.

When newspapers printed the story of Hough's refusing the legacy from his brother-in-law last year, the old man received scores of letters from over the country, many from women who wanted to marry him.

MEXICAN FLYERS REPORT REBELS FLEEING TORREON

Calles Captures Durango
Without Battle.

after we reach Torreon, which will be soon."

Gen. Amaya is retreating over the Durango-Tepic railway, which runs 145 miles north. His only chance to escape, it is reported, is to reach Tepic quickly, disbanding or dividing his troops into small guerrilla bands and disappearing into the hilly terrain in the vicinity.

50 Rebels Killed.

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—[U. P.]—Chapultepec castle reported today that about 50 rebels had been killed and 105 taken prisoners in a fight two days ago when rebels fleeing from Saltillo towards Torreon were overtaken near Derramadero. Ten federal soldiers were killed in the engagement. Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, who commanded the federal forces in the engagement, reported in a telegram received today that he was continuing to pursue the rebels.

Rebels Win Two Skirmishes.

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 15.—[U. P.]—Gov. Marcelo Caraveo in Chihuahua City telegraphed tonight that rebels in the state of Coahuila had crossed the border into Nuevo Leon and captured a federal army supply train with a large quantity of arms, ammunition, and equipment. A number of soldiers guarding the train were killed and wounded. He also reported a victory by the revolutionary cavalry forces of Gen. Raul Madero in the vicinity of Cameros, Coahuila, in which 280 federal soldiers were captured.

Escobar Says He Will Fight.

TORREON, Coahuila, Mexico, March 15.—[U. P.]—Revolutionary forces concentrated here have no intention of evacuating Torreon in the face of the reported advance of Mexican government armies. Gen. José Gonzales Escobar, rebel commander in chief, declared today. Gen. Escobar's statement said:

"In view that there has been a certain alarm in the city and certain rumors that have caused intranquility in the minds of families with unfounded reasons, some going so far as to say that the town would be evacuated by the troops under my command, I frankly declare that all of the military moves observed today or on previous days are only complying with military maneuvers and with no thought of evacuating Torreon, for which there is no reason."

Foreign Interests as well as national are perfectly safeguarded by the troops under my command."

Rebels Seize Mail Planes.

HIPOLITO, Coahuila, Mexico, March 15.—[U. P.]—Two rebel planes circled over the encampment of Gen. J. A. Almazan today, but made no attempt to drop bombs. As Almazan and his staff watched the planes with field glasses, the general received a message from his train, several miles behind him in the desert that the ships were mail planes seized by rebels when they evacuated Saltillo yesterday. The message said the pilots were government mail flyers and three rebel officers were in the cabins of each plane with drawn pistols covering the pilots.

Rebels Deny Durango's Capture.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, March 15.—[U. P.]—Denying Mexico City reports that Gen. Calles had advanced to the vicinity of Durango with his army of government soldiers, leaders of the revolutionary movement here today declared the federal commander in chief was far south of that city. The revolutionists claimed Gen. Calles' army is at Irapuato, in the state of Guanajuato, about 150 miles from Mexico City.

The rebels claimed that Canitas, which was reported by the government to have been the base of the advancing federal column in the drive on Torreon, was in reality in the hands

HOW FEDERALS MOVE ON TORREON

The Mexican federalists' march from three sides on Torreon, the rebel stronghold, continued yesterday. Meanwhile flyers reported the rebels were evacuating Torreon.

Gen. Calles reported the capture of Durango without bloodshed. The rebels, who fled from Durango, are retreating north to Tepic, a pocket in the Sierra Madre.

Other federal columns are known to have reached Hipolito and Parras from the east and southeast. Part of Gen. Almazan's cavalry, based on Hipolito, is reported to be attempting to cut the Torreon-Juarez railway, thus severing Gen. Escobar's line of communications to the north.

rebels reported marching on two cities, Naco, Sonora, and Mazatlan, Sinaloa, both in federal hands.

Clear efforts to entrap the federal forces stood out. Attacks on each city from two different directions were threatened as soon as the rebels could reach their objectives. This, it appeared, might be many hours off.

The border city of Naco, held for the government by 1,200 Indian troops under Gen. Augustino Olachea, faced columns of rebel forces, one marching from the south under Gen. Francisco Manzo and the second, of 1,000 troops, advancing from here under Gen. Fausto Topete.

Mazatlan, occupied by 2,000 federal under Gen. Jaime Carrillo, was reported completely surrounded by rebels with the ocean the only point of escape.

To carry out their plans the rebels executed two surprise moves today. Gen. Manzo, presumably en route to the Mazatlan campaign following his departure from here yesterday, instead detained at Imuris, a railway point 55 miles south, and set out overland for Cananea, to the northwest. Cananea provides the first direct railway connection to Naco from the south.

In the second maneuver, Gen. R. P. Iturbe, commander of the rebel advance on Mazatlan, from the north, reported a detachment of 900 troops under the late Gen. Carrasco to the south of the seaport had revolted. They destroyed all railway communication, Iturbe claimed, and occupied the town of Rosario, Sinaloa, forty miles south of Mazatlan. The general said he instructed the revolted troops to destroy all rail communication by which the federalists might escape.

Mazatlan, viewed by militarists as a stumbling block of the rebel advance toward Mexico City, apparently was safe from an enemy siege for at least five days. Gen. Iturbe admitted the destruction of railway bridges and the federalists in their southward retreat.

Gov. Abelardo Rodriguez of the northern district of Lower California, arrived at Nogales, Ariz., again today after his departure from that point yesterday following an apparently un-

CATHOLIC SOCIETY IN PARIS PROTESTS U. S. HELP FOR MEXICO

PARIS, March 15.—[U. P.]—The Catholic Union of International Research today issued a protest against alleged United States intervention in the Mexican revolution.

The union characterized the revolt as a "religious war which has the support of the majority of Mexicans." The union's protest said the shipment of arms to federalists and the embargo on similar shipments to rebels constituted an intervention which was inspired by a desire to aid American concessionaires and prolong the existing state of anarchy in Mexico.

"The United States has violated the principles of international law and moral justice," the protest said.

Tear gas has been included among other war materials asked for by the Mexican federal government. Orders for the gas as well as rifles, machine guns and ammunition were placed with private manufacturers through the Mexican embassy here. Licenses permitting the shipment of the materials across the border have been granted by the state department.

successful attempt to win Gen. Manzo to the support of the federalists. He inquired for Manzo and retired in seclusion to his room when he learned that Manzo had left here.

Mary Martinez, acting at Mexicali, Lower California, for Rodriguez, termed as "silly" reports that 300 farmers were marching on Tijuana, Lower California, from Ensenada and that the federal garrison at San Luis had been abandoned. Martinez said there were no "farmers or farms" in the Ensenada region.

U. S. May Send Warships.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., March 15.—Use of naval vessels to protect Americans at Mazatlan on the Mexican Pacific coast should severe fighting develop there between the revolutionists and federal troops, is now being considered by the United States government, it was learned today. Preparations for sending the nearest naval vessels have been completed but it is understood no action will be taken unless it is apparent severe fighting is to take place.

Tear gas has been included among other war materials asked for by the Mexican federal government. Orders for the gas as well as rifles, machine guns and ammunition were placed with private manufacturers through the Mexican embassy here. Licenses permitting the shipment of the materials across the border have been granted by the state department.

"I reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet"

"Whirling along the ground at 231 miles per hour to a new world's record was a thrilling experience. It was speed in breath-taking fashion. When I finally brought 'The Golden Arrow' to halt, the nerve let-down was terrific. But out came my pack of Lucky Strike and I soon was smoking in complete happiness. After the strain of my ride the toasted fragrance of Luckies was like a tonic. I reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet. I want to keep trim and fit. I want to feel the glow of pep and health at all times—the thought of excess weight really frightens me. I welcome a Lucky instead of sweets and things that would make me soft."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

PUSH ON TORREON OVER TRACKLESS SANDS OF DESERT

Rails Cut, Almazan Uses
Caravan of Trucks.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Special.]—By the Chicago Tribune.]
HIVOLITO, COAHUILA,
Mexico, March 14.—[Delayed.]—Gen.
Juan Almazan and his Mexican federal army of 10,000 came to a halt tonight in this great Mapini desert of Coahuila.

God was with the rebels, as staff officers expressed it. The federales, advancing from the east on Torreon, had come to a spot so rugged and chopped with gorges and arroyos that a number of bridges, destroyed by the rebels, had to be rebuilt, and miles of the railroad, torn up by the retreating flee, had to be replaced before the advance could continue.

Gen. Almazan's twenty-five trains of cavalry, infantry, and artillery were effectively stopped. However, the halt was only temporary.

Caravans of automobiles and trucks started yesterday from Monterrey, arrived here and he at once began pushing part of his infantry.

Five thousand cavalry men, comprising about ten regiments, led the advance over the trackless wasteland and almost bare even of rocks, mesquite, or chaparral. Truck after truck load of infantry followed over the roadless desert.

Almazan Visits Advance Troops.
The big white shirted Gen. Almazan, towering over the little brown men who compose the mass of the Mexican army, took several trips forward to reconnoiter. On one of these he took three American correspondents who are aboard his train.

Night on the desert is an eerie thing. There is an atmosphere of melancholy brooding over the sands.
The shattered railroad threads its way through an expanse more than 40 miles wide, on each side of which great mountains rise in the hazy blue distance. There are a million twinbling stars. The impression of vastness is oppressive.

There appears to be a foreboding in the air. Only the soft Spanish "sin sueño" hall of the brown sentries breaks their posts breaks the breathless silence. "Seen" the little sentries say, not "sin" as we say it.

10,000,000 Need Education.
Mexico has sixteen million population. Ten million are just like these little brown men of the army. Pure Mexican Indians of fifty different tribes, who under the Aztecs and the Mayas composed Mexico's great ancient civilization. Lieut. Cristobal Cardazo, aide of Gen. Almazan, said.
Today Yaquis and Mayas up in the north, chiefly in Sonora, are tall men. These little brown men from fifty different tribes in the south of Mexico.

"Mexico has only six million of Spanish derivation," Lieut. Cardazo commented. "The remainder are pure Indians. It is this 10,000,000 which must be civilized and educated. Some day perhaps your country will help to do it."

Want to End Revolt.
"They are all natively intelligent.
They need principally a chance."

Many of the staff officers say the same thing. They explain that that is why they are fighting for the government. They want once and for all to put an end to revolutions. Mexico, they say, must learn to work out its politics without revolutions. They discuss this revolt. Gen. Almazan says this one is the most pointless and unjustified attempt at overthrow of the government of any such attempt in twenty years.

All the line and staff officers of this army are dashing men of the Latin type, bronzed and handsome. When they lead their contingents off on horseback, they are attired in faultless uniforms, elaborately buckled and embellished. They wear gay silk handkerchiefs, predominantly red, lightly wound about their throats. Heroic and happy, laughing and singing snatches of Spanish songs, they appear anxious for action on the field and not giving a damn when they die.

This dispatch is being transmitted from a train on which Capt. Blas Mierina, official military telegrapher, has "hooked up" the wires to those alongside the track.

sumers' store at 1903 West 60th street of

REDUCE SENTENCE OF RAPIST WHO POSED AS ARTIST

David Ackerman, 41 years old, North Chicago landscape gardener, sentenced to twenty-five years' imprisonment several weeks ago in a Waikana court on a rape charge, had his sentence reduced yesterday by Judge Claire C. Edwards to one year and six months in Joliet penitentiary.

On June 4 of last year Ackerman, posing as an artist, lured Mrs. Margaret Smith, 28 year old Chicago artist's model, to a secluded spot on the estate of A. D. Lasker in Lake Forest, on the pretext of posing for pictures, and criminally attacked her, it was brought out at the trial.

The reduced sentence followed an agreement reached out of court by State's Attorney A. N. Smith of Lake county and James G. Welch, Ackerman's counsel. Judge Edwards allowed a motion for a new trial on the admission by the state's attorney that evidence relative to prison terms served by Ackerman in New Jersey for taking indecent liberties with children had been improperly introduced.
Ackerman then entered a plea of guilty to rape and received the cut in sentence.

INDICT SCALISI AND M'GURN FOR GANG MASSACRE

Grand Jurors Fail to Hold Faneli.

Seven murder indictments were returned yesterday against Jack McGurn and John Scalisi, gunmen, in connection with the massacre on St. Valentine's day of seven members of the Bugs Moran north side booze gang in a garage at 2122 North Clark street.

Rocco Faneli, a third gangster, who has been held under murder charges by police along with McGurn and Scalisi, was not indicted. It was understood that, in the opinion of Assistant Prosecutors Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler, the charges against Faneli could not be substantiated.

Three Face Court Today.
All three, McGurn, Scalisi and Faneli, are to appear this morning before Municipal Judge Peter Schwaba, in South State street court for preliminary hearing.

Returning of the indictments yesterday, on the eve of today's arraignment, was considered a coup on the part of the prosecutors. With the indictments voted, it is understood, the state will not have to reveal its most important testimony before Judge Schwaba.

The indictments were returned before Judge Harry B. Miller in Criminal court in the absence of Chief Justice John J. Sullivan. The massacre victims were: Dr. Reinhold Schwim-mer, John May, James Clark, Peter Gusenber, Morris Schenk, uncle of Walter, Adam Heyer, and Al Weinshenk.

Victims' Relatives Testify.
The mothers of two of the slain men, Mrs. Josephine Schwimmer and Mrs. Anna Kachalsky (mother of Clark), and the widow of another,
Mrs. Hattie May, were among the witnesses appearing before the grand jury. Other witnesses were: Henry Gusenber, brother of the two Gusen-bergs; Policeman Thomas J. Loftis, and George A. Brichet.

was found guilty of stealing his automobile in Judge Marcus Kavanagh's court. Curtis testified that the automobile was stolen from in front of his home June 9. Sims, who repudiated confessions made to the police enabling them to recover stolen autos valued at $50,000, faces a term of one to twenty years.

admission by the state's attorney that

ASK TAXPAYERS' HELP IN FIXING LAND VALUATIONS

Any Assessment Too Low?
Fill Out Complaint.

The board of assessors want citizens to report to them if their neighbor's property is about to be under-taxed. The board yesterday approved the complaint form for the use of property owners who attend the public hearings on unit values that will start next week. One paragraph of the form reads as follows:

"Facts justifying increase are as important as facts justifying decrease, since an increase in value of other property under-assessed decreases taxes on property properly assessed."

The part of the form, which is to be mailed to the assessors, reads:

"The unit price on _____ street between _____ and _____ should be _____ instead of _____."

There is then a blank space for remarks, followed by a place for the name, address, telephone number, and occupation of the complainant, with the answer to a question of whether he is the owner of the property concerned.

The first part of the form is devoted to an explanation of the maps to be displayed at the public meetings. It reads:

"All unit prices shown on maps are for a depth of 125 feet. Front foot values for lots more or less than 125 feet are obtained by multiplying the unit price by the percentage given in the attached table. Unit prices are for inside lots; corner lots are given an additional value."

"Complaints must be based on facts. Full consideration will be given where evidence of recent sales or leases of property are furnished. Formal options to sell where the unit price is felt to be too high or agreements to purchase where the unit price is felt to be too low are the best evidence of sincerity. It should be realized, of course, that an individual sale does not establish the value for the entire street."

The scale for applying the front foot unit value to lots of depths other than 125 feet follows:

Potatoes in Their Skins Are Delicious Food

Writers Laud Them in Their Works.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Some shamrocks growing in the longest and slimmest of Idaho potatoes—on a ribbon at one end of the potato—we hoped it was the stem end, as in all reasonableness it should have been one of the pre-eminences of this year for St. Patrick's day. These potato jardinières have drawn much attention to themselves, whether seen in florist or grocery window.

It is right and proper that the "Irish potato," even though in a possibly United States guise, should be spotlighted on the patriotic Irish feast day, although we believe that Irish shamrocks have a much older eminence. Then, it has had no such nickname as "Murphy." And if we are making for other justifications of the potato—and there are several others—that the white potato, native of Peru, should be called "Irish," there is the circumstance of the emigrants from old Londonderry bringing potatoes to the new Londonderry [N. H.], and so setting up the culture of the potato in New England—as the Irish benefit as the Celt ever contributed to the material side of American life. A hill of potatoes is an abundant and inexpensive sustenance, and even the inedible balls of the vine were the subject of interesting American experiment before Burbank's day.

Cook Them in Their Skins.

If ever there was any self-imposed settling of the matter, the potato carries its own piece of food, the potato carries its own indications. The one best way of cooking potatoes is in their skins—if these have been properly cleaned—in what the French call their "robes de chambre," which is amusing, since the term in other connotations means nightgowns. The deeply indented stem end of a potato is a wonderful spot. If we set the potato raw—all soldiers and common people like myself "peel" potatoes, while the old fashioned general "pare" them, which may be the most correct thing to do—unless the potato also has, as it is commonly done, a fortunate for the grower but not the cook, a great number of deeply indented eyes, often comically human, but then it also has a rose end—a pleasant thought.

Little New Potatoes.

And speaking of the rose end of a potato reminds me of the little up-rose potatoes of this season. If these precious little bits have not been dug in too rough a manner—so that their raw flesh is exposed to dirt and favor distorting agents of many sorts—and they have not associated too near with rotting refuse, they may be cooked to be as delicious as bonbons. These who have given scientific attention to the matter, tell us what call usages to potatoes because they are small, but it has seemed to me that people could not understand anything's breathing unless that thing could part. Unlike potatoes are probably more changed by breathing thing done than are ripe ones.

Sometimes, fortunately, the little "new" potatoes come to us without being loaded with ounces of loam, which we pay for at new potato prices, and without showing, after they are cooked, that have had unholy associations. For such favors, I, for one, am truly thankful, for I am a great eater of potatoes, and am not in consequence an obese person. There is measure in all things, and then, besides, the caloric measure of a potato is really slight, or only about one-fourth that of bread or a little more. This means that it is slight only before we add butter and cream and perhaps cheese to it.

Regard for the Potato.

Upon potatoes as satisfactory food phenomena much lovely regard has been bestowed. In "Household Words" for 1884—it seems as though Dickens himself must have written the articles—there are two essays concerning an Englishman's search for real beef in Paris, and here is one bit from the first of these: "Some potatoes in their homely brown jackets, just out at elbows, as well done potatoes should be, with their flannel undergarments peeping through."

"As to the jackets being 'homely and brown,' we all know how we can, with a brush, change a brunette skinned potato to a decided blonde, and that this skin will not be any deep brown when cooked."

Steamed Potatoes.

The Englishman was much slower than the Irishman to come to a full and just appreciation of the potato, but when he did he believed his potatoes the best in the world, as is perhaps shown in this passage from Gleanings of "Private Papers of Henry Everett": "Talking of vegetables: one the inhabitants globe offer anything to vie with the English potato justly steamed? I do not say that it is always—or often—to be seen on our tables, for the steaming of a potato is one of the great achievements of the culinary art; but when it is set before you, how flesh and spirit exult! A modest palate will find more than simple comfort in your boiled potatoes of every day, as served in the decent household. New or old, it is beyond challenge delectable."

"Try to think that civilized nations exist to whom this food is unknown—say, who speak of it, on hearsay, with contempt! Such critics, little as they suspect it, never ate a potato in their lives. What they have swallowed under that name was the vegetable with all its exquisite characteristics vulgarized or destroyed."

A GAY ST. PATRICK'S TABLE

This St. Patrick's table with its shamrocks in various guises, its bright green snappers, the big shamrock in the center with a likeness of Pat—or is it Mike—and its crepe paper tablecloth edged with jiggling colleens and their boy friends, is all set for the refreshments for a party on March 17.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

A Four Beggar Dessert.

In the book "Dining in Paris," by Somerville Story, is the following paragraph: "I used to be puzzled, as I suppose many others have been, by what the French call the 'quatre menudants' or 'four beggars.' When fruit is put on the table, it is often the custom—a practice that has come down from the middle ages—to put hazel nuts, almonds, figs, and dried raisins on the same plate. These are the 'four beggars,' since they were supposed in those days to resemble, at least in color, the four great monastic orders who lived by mendicity. The fig was the Franciscan in his gray robe and cowl, the hazel nut, the brown Carmelite, the almond, the lighter brown Dominican, the raisin, the black Augustinian."

We think this is suggestive of Lent, the diets of which have been so colored by monastic practices that we print it, while being at the same time tortured by trying to remember where we have seen a description of it before.

And while we are cribbing from the book in question, let us note one of the combinations Mr. Somerville considers a fine restaurant meal: "Where would his hors d'œuvres be so choice, his petite marmite so rich, his chicken so wonderfully served, his ro-nonauté prepared with such care, and his fish, omelette, pommes soufflés or crêpes be so exquisite?"

Mr. Somerville says that too many restaurateurs are mere "marchands de soupe," as the phrase goes, and care nothing about the psychology of their trade and its interest. "They realize too little what a great rôle they play in increasing the contentment, grace, and merriment of the world."

And then he describes the old type which has manner and knowledge, joined to French wit and vivacity. "To chat with some of these men is as entertaining and enlightening as to converse with a distinguished author."

That old Grimoire de la Reynière, more than a hundred years earlier, has described restaurants by that untranslatable term "maisons de bouche." To say "houses of the mouth" does not give the spirit of the term, but it does suggest to us the delightful terms that have been used in the past that have made eating irresistibly gay and entertaining, and the ideas that got expression in such terms as "the four beggars."

St. Patrick's Party Tables Show His Colors

Green Symbols of Erin Make Gay Decorations.

BY SALLY LUNN.

Just the thought of St. Patrick's day and the flamboyant verandage that is associated with it is stimulating to the idea of a party, isn't it? There is so much that is jolly and cheerful and springlike in the traditional celebration to the memory of that patron of the Emerald Isle that the task of selecting favors and arranging table decorations for a party on March 17 is a simple and enjoyable one.

The color scheme is, of course, predetermined. Can you imagine a St. Patrick's party with purple or red decorations? And green is such a bright and satisfactory color, especially at this time of year, when everybody is anticipating spring. It's a splendid color at any time, by the way, as you may have noticed in nature's color scheme. But just because the hue of your trimmings is decided for you is no reason why you haven't latitude to create a unique decorative scheme. How about a bright green sixteen table cloth, for example, for a somewhat gaudy but nevertheless effective basis for your table adornments?

A Wide Choice of Favors.

Shamrocks of cardboard or crepe paper lend themselves delightfully to pretty designs, and you can employ your ingenuity to think of new ways to use them. Besides the shamrocks, you can choose either of the Irish symbols to augment your scheme. Potatoes, either artificial or real, little white clay pipes (for a children's party, they can be used for soap-bubble blowing), miniature Irish stove-pipe hats, little candy or paper maché pigs, small figures of "Mike" with his snub nose and blarney grin, and even emerald tinted snakes, such as the ones St. Patrick was supposed to have driven from Erin.

Peasato Centerpieces.

I have appropriated one of the household discoveries this week, which is a trifle long for the contest, and which demonstrates how "one living in the sticks where supplies are scarce" used her wits for a clever St. Patrick's decoration. For centerpieces for bridge tables, long smooth potatoes were obtained, one for each table. According to the instructions, appropriately penned in green ink, "a good bit was cut off one side of each, and part of each center was scooped out, making cavities large enough to hold tiny pots of Oxalis plant, which looks like shamrock."

The rest of the scooped place was filled with crumpled up green tissue paper, and each potato was tied around diagonally with narrow green ribbon. "They were considered the most clever centerpieces ever seen by any of the women."

HOUSEHOLD DISCOVERIES

The Tribune will pay one dollar each for aids to housekeeping, prize winning ideas to be published each Saturday morning on the food pages. If you have a unique discovery, pass it on to other housewives. Recipes are excluded. Send discoveries in care of Sally Lunn, Chicago Tribune.

A good way to store galoshes is to put them in a large, clean paper bag, after they have been thoroughly brushed and cleaned, inside and out. Fold the top of the bag over two or three times and paste down with gummed paper or library paste. This will keep them free from dirt and moths. Mrs. F. W., Clinton, Wis.

When tying packages with stiff twine, dampen the twine slightly. This prevents it from slipping, and enables you to make tight knots, as the cord shrinks as it dries. Mrs. D. W., Iowa City, Ia.

To have varnish which is left over, remove from can and put in a bottle with ordinary stopper. This will last from one year to another. Mrs. G. U., Chicago.

To keep kid gloves from wearing out at the tips, place a small strip of adhesive tape across the inside of each tip. Miss E. A. S., Blue Island, Ill.

If you use two pair of pillow cases on your pillow, the ticking will not soil so quickly and the pillow will also be cooler. M. H., Chicago.

If your card tables are wobbly, a piece of blotting paper stuck in the hinges will help to straighten them. Mrs. C. W. S., Galesburg, Ill.

Make covers of fancy ticking for your suitcases and traveling bags when they are not in use, and they will keep in good condition. H. A. G., Logansport, Ind.

Drunken Driver Imprisoned as a "Potential Murderer"

St. Joseph, Mich., March 15.—(Special.)—August Smith of Sawyer, Mich., was given six months to a year in Jackson today by Judge Charles E. White for driving while drunk. The court told Smith that he was a "potential murderer."

Rocco Curo, motorman on a Humboldt Park elevated train, which crashed into another train at the Marshallfield avenue station on March 11, was freed yesterday by a coroner's verdict of accidental death in the case of Joseph Roduto, a passenger.

This sausage seasoning a secret for seventy-five years

now yours daily in these Mickelberry delights

Today's Recipe

Mickelberry's Sausage Croquettes

1/4 cups cooked Mickelberry's link sausage cut in 1-inch lengths
1/4 cups mashed potato or cooked hominy
1 tablespoon grated onion, if desired
1 egg
1/2 cup dried bread or cracker crumbs
Peck links all over and fry. Cut into 1-inch lengths and mix with onion and potato or hominy. Shape and coat by rolling in crumbs, slightly beaten egg and crumbs again. Immerse in deep hot fat at 375° F. until browned about 3 to 5 minutes or brown in shallow fat in a fry pan. Serve hot, plain or with tomato sauce.

Many a "sunrise" sausage banquet was given at the Mickelberry plantation down in Georgia when Grandmother Mickelberry herself presided in the great kitchens and blended with her own hands the sausage for which she was so famous.

She alone knew the knack of so temptingly combining choice, tender morsels of young pork with a secret seasoning of rare Southern spices and select condiments. Little wonder that bids to her repasts were so ardently sought.

Today, you can have sausage just as Grandmother Mickelberry herself prepared it after her own secret recipe seventy-five years ago, which is the identical recipe used today for Mickelberry's famous old farm sausage.

Encourages digestion
The delicate, spicy flavor wins you instantly. It is mild, yet zestful. But, what is more, these dainty sausages are positively encouraging to digestion, so they may be eaten freely. They are served daily in homes, hotels, clubs and on finest trains, and are appropriate for any meal occasion.

Made fresh daily. Delivered fresh daily. Sold in the well-known green and yellow package. Always at their best. Links, patties, meat. At your dealer's.

WASTE, DISHONESTY AND TAXES.

Public meetings are to be held in various parts of the city within a few days, at which citizens will be invited to express any objections they may have to the new assessments placed upon their property. These meetings will have no official character and have been called merely to give the taxpayers an opportunity to present their opinions to the assessors.

When, at the instance of the state tax commission, the quadrennial revaluation was thrown out as unequal, a new assessment was undertaken which has now been virtually completed. It was intended to do away with gross injustices and favoritism. A new method of valuation was employed, which was expected to produce a closer approximation to true values than the county has known for many years. It is this new valuation which is now to be presented to taxpayers. A good many citizens have allowed themselves to believe that if the new assessment is all that its friends claim for it, the major problem of taxation in Cook county has been solved.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. What the new assessment has done, if a judgment may be made upon the basis of the incomplete data made public, is to raise valuations generally to the level of the higher valuations on the discarded sheets. Under the new dispensation, it is doubtful if many tax bills will be lowered, and it is probable that countless bills will be increased.

We make no defense of unequal taxes when we say that the real difficulty is not unequal taxation, but excessive taxation. Chicago is overtaxed because waste and thievery have been the rule in many of our local governments. An equal assessment alone can never abate the evil, and it may even aggravate it. From present indications it appears that the 2 per cent tax upon the new values will yield a sum greatly in excess of any ever before placed in the hands of tax spending officials in this county. The voters of Chicago have done all in their power to prevent the present city administration from getting its hands on additional funds, and it now appears that the will of the voters may be overruled. The money that the voters would not trust the administration to spend is being given to the administration in spite of the voters.

There can be no solution of Chicago's tax difficulties until the waste is ended, and the waste will not be ended by giving the tax consumers more money to dissipate on padded pay rolls, dishonest contracts, and ill planned and ill built public works. There will be no progress toward genuine tax reform in Cook county until the energy which lately has gone into obtaining a reassessment is directed toward the heart of the problem, the reduction of expenditures.

MORE MILLIONS FOR PAVEMENTS.

A bill has been introduced at Springfield which, it is said, will permit a considerable saving in the cost of maintaining Chicago's streets. Under present arrangements, the vehicle tax fund may be used to repair pavements which are no more than 15 per cent damaged; but, if the need for repairs is greater, the only relief to be had is by tearing up the entire pavement, foundation and all, and laying a new one by special assessment. The proposed legislation would permit the levying of special assessments, when the majority of property owners consent, for repaving pavements damaged more than 15 per cent.

Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, has said that the street foundations are often good even when the surface is badly worn. He estimates the difference in cost between new pavements and salvaged pavements at $60,000,000. The bill should be examined with the greatest caution. It cannot be considered apart from the administration which will make use of it. The record of that administration in street paving is not such as to warrant giving it any additional right to dig into the pockets of the property owners.

RAILROADS AND COMMUTERS.

The West Lawn Real Estate Men's association has prepared a statement of the transportation situation on the southwest side of Chicago. Relief for inaccessible neighborhoods is suggested through the installation of feeder bus lines, extension of elevated properties, and improvement of suburban service on the railroads traversing the district. The Baltimore and Ohio, Wabash, and Grand Trunk railroads are situated to serve commuters in this section.

Quite properly, the traffic survey included the railroads in the discussion. It is a legitimate claim upon the roads which center in Chicago that they supply adequate suburban service for the communities convenient to their rights of way. This a number of the railroads have failed to do. Their neglect is not condoned by the paucity of commuters in their districts. They have lacked the initiative to go into the suburban business and compete with other less satisfactory modes of transportation. There are commuters on the southwest side, just as there are on the south side, in the western and northern suburbs, and in Beverly Hills, and more will locate there if the railroads develop the suburban capacity of their properties. Many of the railroads would be satisfied to operate only as freight carriers, but for this privilege they are required to serve the public in passenger transportation. There is no reason why their obligation to the public should apply only to maintaining through passenger service.

FREEDOM OF THE SEA.

In a discussion of the freedom of the sea the London Spectator says that war with the United States remains unthinkable unless Great Britain as a belligerent applied its sea rules to the United States again as a neutral and the United States were fully capable of defending its merchant vessels and was determined in case of need to do so. "The point need not be labored," the Spectator continues. "It is a contingency on which no one desires to dwell. But it is commonly agreed by all who knew the inner history of those years that American vessels could never have been treated as they were in 1915 and 1916 if the American navy then had been as strong as it is being made today."

That is frank, and it is true. Moreover, it is well to have it said. Many people deplore a consideration of probabilities when the subject is the unpleasant one of war, but the greater danger is to ignore them. If the United States and Great Britain try to deceive themselves and each other with pretenses that certain consequences will not follow certain causes they will be guiding themselves by illusions and their conduct will be unequal.

Great Britain is not given to that sort of thing and it is not likely to be. Self-deception is not an outstanding feature of British statesmanship. But the United States consults its wishes more often than it does probabilities and for that reason British frankness should be welcome here.

If the two nations will consider now what they would do in certain possible emergencies they will avoid a great deal more trouble than they will make. The United States may be returning to the sea. It has not made a notable success of it thus far, but there are new tendencies in the American marine and if profits can be found on the sea, American capital will seek them there. It is the tradition of foreign trade and foreign investments to link up with a merchant marine and a navy. The United States may not be able to resist the pull if it tried to do so. The fact that congress could pass the cruiser bill in the face of the organized opposition to it may have been significant of deeper things. The coming of a new sea power always has been a signal of trouble. Competition always has been dangerous when it has been the rivalry of ships. It is dangerous enough in many other channels in which profit is sought by competing nations.

The rights of neutrals, as the Spectator points out, have become hard to define because contraband has become next to impossible to describe. Everything which can be sold to a nation at war has some part in the carrying on of a modern war. No nation can afford to permit its enemy to gather strength or conserve it by foreign trade if it can be prevented. If it is strong enough it will dictate the terms of trade.

Neutral nations may submit because they must. Powerful neutrals will not submit to weaker belligerents. Sea law works itself out on facts and needs. Unthinkable wars may find their peremptory causes. If America takes to the sea it is unlikely that any pacifist opposition can prevent the building of a navy competent to take care of the merchantmen. People do not leave great investments and vital interests unprotected.

American money and American financial experts administering the "service of the loan" are all over the world as Roman procurators. Charles Beard, the historian, in a recent article said it was definitely understood that the flag followed the dollar. It also then, considering the present and the prospects, may be understood why there is renewed activity to get the United States into the world court and into the league of nations.

Editorial of the Day

CHANGED VIEW OF MEXICO.

[Baltimore Sun.]

One of the most interesting aspects of the Mexican rebellion is the mood in which news of it has been received in this country. In spite of easily recalled annoyances with Calles and his associates, there has been raised in this country hardly a voice to take exception to the policy of the administration in supporting the existing régime in Mexico with ammunition, supplies, and expressions of implied friendliness. Although two years have not passed since Calles was being denounced by American officials as a Bolshevik and the oil companies were bitter in their denunciation of Mexican "confiscatory legislation," the Mexican government of which Calles is the moving spirit if not the titular head, receives the fullest support of America as if its past had been as indisputably respectable as the government of England.

Probably the most important explanation of this change of attitude is the fact that the Mexican revolutionary government has ridden out the only storms that it has met. It has not only established authority in Mexico, an explanation which must be supplemented with mention of the Mexican Supreme court's decision in the oil lands case and of Ambassador Morrow's labors in the vineyard of harmony. But there is also another explanation, and that lies in a growing impatience with those who appeal recklessly to force to secure their objectives. There are many in this country who accept Gen. Escobar's statement of principles as valid and who would like to see many of them established. But the leader who takes an army into the field and irresponsibly throws a country into disorder and confusion has forfeited the right to have his principles weighed upon their own merit. By his very action he becomes not an advocate of reforms and social changes but a nuisance to be abated. It is this attitude which accounts for the almost unanimous American impatience with the revolt against Porfirio Gil in Mexico.

Impatience, however, is not the only expression of this country's mood. In spite of isolated dissatisfactions with this or that ineptitude or abuse on the part of the present Mexican government, the American people have come to feel that the present régime sincerely aspires to improve the economic and social condition of the Mexican masses, and with such a government Americans have sympathy even when they do not accept all its dogmas or approve its every act. Certainly they do not support attacks against such a government by military factions which fire their shots first and state their principles afterward.

White and gleaming in the doorway,
Matching blue and white tiled floorway—
Drop your penny in the slot for Printed card of what is not your Weight and fate, but, satisfied,
Seek a showcase where with pride
You will eye your form reflected Midst the cream and nuts confectioned.
Wander through the bright red portal,
Seek the altars of mere mortal.
Counter six for tinsel lace,
Counter ten for toys—a space
Beyond fourteen is where the weary
Gather to drown the dreary
Notes of sorrow, work, disaster,
With the music, ever faster
Tinkling through its wooden frame—
Music, music, all the same—
"Love's Lane" and "Skies Above"—
Shifting feet and thoughts of love,
Fingers limp with rings are fleeing
Over keys while hearts are beating
Time. And over past the fragrance
Of Cologne, in wanton vagrance
Mingling with the eau de rose,
Tempting purse and teasing nose—
Over past this pungent feature
Stands a red-lipped, golden creature,
Taking silver dimes for trinkets
To be worn by girls who think it's Quite as nice and much less cost
Than purchasing from Black, Starr, and Frost.

"There are no new ways," says the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, "of getting drunk." And Walter Winchell recommends that he try an Alexander cocktail—made of equal parts of whipped cream, cream de cocoa, and gin, with just about that much abstinence. If the Reverend knows that one, Charles Carroll (no longer of Carrollton) is willing to bet a nickel he doesn't know the Gyo, which he assures us is complicated but surefire. You line up in a row, Reverend—the Gyo is not for solitary drinkers—place a pinch of salt on the back of the left hand, grasp a piece of orange between the thumb and middle finger and take a glass of gin in the right. Count one—eat the salt; count two, drink the gin; count three, quick—eat the orange. Repeat until desired results are obtained. Oh, Rev., you ought to get around more. There are more new ways of getting drunk in these United States than Einstein could count.

MILK SICKNESS TREATMENT.

If certain work can be verified a cure for milk sickness has been found. This cure consists in feeding large quantities of starch and sweet foods. Since sugar is quickly absorbed and can be used by the tissues with less change than is necessary for starches, it is the better emergency remedy. If, for any reason, where sugar is not available, it can be retained, digested by the stomach or absorbed or utilized, a solution can be injected into a vein or elsewhere, if the emergency is great.

The discovery was made by Drs. Bulger, Smith and Steinmeyer. In doing some experimental work on milk sickness these men noted that the animals developed coma and died in convulsions. They also noted that missing a feeding time or delaying the feeding time made the animals worse, and that vomiting was liable to lead to convulsions and death. If the animals were driven to exert themselves they generally developed convulsions and died. They remembered the case of a farmer who, feeling somewhat better from his attack of milk sickness, got up and went to work. He developed convulsions and died. All of these symptoms suggested sugar starvation. They examined the blood of animals sick with milk sickness and found that it contained far less than the normal amount of sugar. In certain cases they found the blood overcharged with fat. Acetone was present, as has been frequently noted. All of this was confirmatory of the theory that in milk sickness there is a marked sugar hunger in the tissues. The condition is the opposite of acute diabetes. There remained the therapeutic test. They poisoned the animals with the weed which causes milk sickness and then, when they became violently sick, they treated them with a properly made sugar solution. It acted like a charm.

There is not enough evidence for a final pronouncement, but there is enough to call for additional tests. Many laboratories are working on milk sickness. Some of them carry stocks of the weed, white snake root, or of the poison tremetol. In midsummer of this year, in all probability, a good many cows will be poisoned by this means. Some of the people who will be poisoned should give sugar and starchy foods. As a rule, these people will live on farms or in small towns. Their physicians should know the possibility that sugar and other sweets and starchy foods will give relief.

MARCH 15, 1864.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Lincoln has issued a call for 200,000 more men, in addition to the 500,000 called for Feb. 1864. "To supply the army," he said, "I have ordered the navy and to provide an adequate reserve force in all contingencies." The order continues: "The 15th day of April, 1864, is designated as the time up to which the numbers required from each ward of a city town, etc., may be raised by volunteer enlistments; and drafts will be made in each ward of a city town, etc., which shall not have filled the quota except the time within the time designated."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The military committee of the house has decided to report in favor of increasing the pay of soldiers to $18 a month and of sergeants to $20.

CAIRO, Ill.—Gov. Yates came down today on the train and went down the river on the steamer Mississippi. He goes to Memphis.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Some slight skirmishing took place yesterday beyond Morristown, in which the rebel Col. Jones was killed. All is quiet at the front today. The rebels are supposed to be in force at Bull's Gap. CHICAGO.—The strike movement on the part of the railroad engineers seems to be spreading. On the Iowa and Nebraska and Great Western they have already "struck." Engineers on Michigan Central, North Western, Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne, Cincinnati Air Line, Burlington and Quincy, and Milwaukee railroads quit work yesterday noon. Those who quit on morning runs will quit as soon as they return. The trouble started in a wage controversy between the Galena and Chicago Union railroad and its engineers.

FIELD FOR DRY RESEARCH.

Wichita, Kas., March 11.—If President Hoover succeeds in the formation of a commission to study the prohibition question composed of men so unopinionated as to require at this late date further enlightenment regarding the ignominious experiment of prohibition, it would be appropriate that he should first send such commission to the state of Kansas for its first lesson. For Kansas was the cradle of prohibition. Here it was conceived in ignorance of economic law and here it was nurtured in the sublimity of hypocrisy.

In 1881 prohibition became part of the state constitution. Nevertheless, open saloons were continued in Kansas for more than half the time since then, and due to automobile facilities recent years Kansas is practically in the same class with every other state of the Union so far as the sale and use of hard liquor is concerned. The farmers continue to make wine as they want it and every home is at least a potential producer of home brew; while corn whiskey is continually being produced in immense quantities.

In the city of Wichita during 1928 there were 224 arrests for driving automobiles while the driver was intoxicated and during the month of February just past 173 persons were arrested for intoxication. Of course, these figures represent only a small fraction of those who might have been arrested had the police been omnipresent. It is sufficient to state positively that hard liquor is used much more freely than it was before the Volstead act became a law and that this is particularly true with the younger set.

The governor of Kansas has just secured an appropriation of $40,000, which will be used to enforce prohibition. We know that 40 cents or $40,000,000 would be equally effective for that purpose. Of course, Kansas, being an agricultural state, has not witnessed the full flower of prohibition. We have to go to Chicago to see the wholesale killings directly due to bootlegging and we have to go to the more eastern cities to see the extensive sale of high-grade imported liquors, but it would seem to me that after lesson No. 1 in Kansas, Mr. Hoover's suggested commission will feel justified in returning to Washington to urge that immediate steps be taken to repeal that most iniquitous piece of legislation—the eighteenth amendment to the American constitution.

HENRY WARE ALLEN.

HONOR IN THE STANDARD OIL. Chicago, March 11.—It has been intimated that the debate of Col. Stewart in his contest with the Rockefeller by a comparatively few wealthy stockholders indicated that men of wealth are more scrupulous than those with less means. This can be true only if the record of the Standard Oil company has been better under the Rockefellers than under Stewart.

The success of the Standard Oil company from the date of its formation has been largely due to practices in violation of the interstate commerce act, such as secret rates and rebates from railroad companies, underbidding, underclassification, and the merciless crushing of competitors.

In 1922 it was discovered that, through a subsidiary, the Southern Improvement company, the Standard Oil company secured rebates not merely on its own oil but also on all shipments to competitors. Although the Southern Improvement company was then dissolved by the Standard Oil, the parent company continued to enjoy discriminating rates for thirty years thereafter—that is, until 1952.

When it was prosecuted as a trust several companies were formed and controlled by a "holding company," being in effect still a trust and operating more this form until 1911. As a result of federal prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust act the Supreme court declared this holding company an illegal combination and ordered its dissolution.

It seems evident, therefore, that the Standard Oil company, when controlled by the Rockefellers, was not more honest than Stewart.

MRS. MOLLER OF THE DISTRICT. Chicago, March 11.—I wish to inform you that my father, my mother, and myself disapprove of the marriage you have given in regard to Bertha C. Moller, attorney for the sanitary district of Chicago. Having known this party for years we know that she would not be guilty of these things stated against her. We are interested in good citizenship, and there is no one that we would sooner have in such an office than Bertha C. Moller.

A REMEDY FOR MUNICIPAL NEGLECT.

Chicago, March 14.—From all indications the city is broke and there is going to be but little money expended in cleaning up the streets, alleys, vacant lots, etc.

As a citizen, taxpayer, and manufacturer I am rather proud of the old city and would like to see some action taken by Chicago papers in advocating a general cleanup day. The property owners could do a lot toward cleaning up the city and thereby save the city considerable expense.

Just this morning I sent a crew into the street with brooms, hose, and shovels for the purpose of cleaning up around our property on all sides. It makes a big difference in appearance. If all other property owners would do the same thing we would have a cleaner Chicago.

REILLY STARTS FIGHT ON RINGA IN 39TH WARD

Alderman Is Depicted as Political Acrobat.

Frank R. Ringa of the 39th ward, who is tabbed by the Municipal Voters' league as a "slavish devotee" of Thompsonism, was depicted as one of the acrobats in politics last night when the supporters of Frank J. Reilly launched their campaign for the school election on April 2.

Ringa is a Republican ward committeeman, and for weeks city hall politicians have been puzzled over his facial affiliations. In the election last night the Deneen camp put his name on their slate of candidates for committeeman although he had been named an America Firster. The Democrats had hardly got over the shock of carrying the ball to the wrong goal when the Crow-Thompsons heard that Ringa was not in the Thompson machine huddle.

Politicians Still Curious.

Since then reports have been current that he is affiliated with the group led by Charles V. Barrett, member of the board of review. But the acrobats have not all been dispelled, and political circles are still displaying curiosity as to the laundry marks on the alderman's fresh collar. Meanwhile, in the 39th ward, Ringa is still one of the mayors' yessers. Special bulletins are being prepared by the league on the fight of Reilly against Ringa.

Ald. Ringa is an undertaker. In meetings last night some of his critics pointed out that the M. V. L. has reported that as a statesman he tried to get the council to allow the use of arms on horses.

Chapman Opens Campaign.

Ald. John W. Chapman of the 40th ward opened his campaign with a meeting at Wilson and Kedzie ave. His opponent in the April 2 run off is Dr. Joseph C. Ross. The 5th Ward Citizens' association, of which I. N. Chellev is president, was represented at the meeting and it was announced that the organization is financing the printing and distribution of a letter in Chapman's behalf.

The campaigning is expected to be lively in the closing ten days. Both Chapman and Ross are accusing each other of having had a penchant for Thompsonism. Most of the ward politicians regard Chapman as the probable winner.

Fight Warms Up in 50th.

In the 50th ward, scene of the scrimmage between Ald. A. K. Mose and Curtis F. Mellin, the campaigning began. Wiley K. Gallo-way, who ran third in the Feb. 26 election, was heralded by the Mellin forces as one of their acquisitions of support. Carl Hjalmar Lundquist, another candidate on Feb. 26, is also with Mellin, while William Brown, the Deneen committeeman, is holding meetings in Mellin's behalf.

County Commissioner Louis Nettelhorst, Brundage ward committeeman, is reiterating his accusation that a "deal" is on to make Brown ward committeeman in an effort by the Deneen group to squeeze Edward J. Brundage, former Illinois attorney general, out of Chicago politics.

Parisian Star Blackens Eye of Chicago Girl Actress

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright, 1929, By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 15.—Billie Irwin, 17 year old Chicago girl, today showed the judge as pretty a black eye as any body could get outside of the prize ring when she filed complaint of assault and battery against Mlle. Edmunde Guy, French dance star.

Billie and her twin sister, Pattie, had run off with the current show at the Palace Music hall, where Mlle. Guy was supposed to be the star. The other night Mlle. Guy got excited and had her gallant male dancing partner, an Austrian by the name of Van Duren, hold Billie while she, Mlle. Guy, darkened the little Chicago lady's eye a few shades.

Through Charles Campbell, American lawyer, and with the help of her mother, Mrs. Betsy Irwin, who used to live in Hamilton Park, Chicago, until the twin daughters danced themselves to fame, Billie filed the complaint. She asks damages of $1,000.

Billie Takes the Count.

"Mlle. Guy and we never spoke, but obviously she was not our friend," Billie said. "She thought we got too much applause, I guess. Last night during the finale, Mlle. Guy claimed somebody bumped her. It was not me. Anyway, as soon as the curtain rang down she came up to me and swore in French, 'while Van Duren caught my arms. Then she gave me an upercut that sent me spinning twice around and flat on my back. I came only a couple of inches of sliding right out under the curtain, which would have looked pretty. It hurt terribly.

"They took me to the American hospital, where the whole side of my face seemed paralyzed. But it now seems I only got this black eye and some sort of injury to my jaw bone where I am having some dental work done. I can't understand why Mlle. Guy acted that way. It certainly took me by surprise."

It seems when Billie took the count, Pattie rushed in with three gentlemen and a half a dozen firemen, who had their hands full keeping the Franco-American amity safe.

Mademoiselle Weeps in Court.

Mlle. Guy went to see the examining magistrate today and in true Gallic manner wept, and said she just got so mad at the little Yankee slyph that she couldn't restrain herself from inflicting bodily punishment. She claimed, too, that Billie maliciously knocked her chapeau askew when passing behind her in the big finale. Inasmuch as Billie is only about half as tall as Mlle. Guy, this seems fair grounds for assault, according to Billie's lawyer.

M. Pene, who presides over the police commissariat in the Montmartre quarter and is often called to arbitrate hair pullings among excitable French stars, said he would try to reconcile the "delicious little Americaine" and "that admirable Mlle. Guy." The theater world predicts that he will have to call out the militia if he tries anything like that.

U. S. NEWSPAPER
WOMAN MISSING;
FEAR FOUL PLAY

PARIS, March 15.—Police have been diligently but fruitlessly searching for six days for Miss Betty Van Benthuy-sen, American newspaper woman. One of the theories of her fadeout is that she met with foul play in one of the low cafes in the Montmartre while tracking down a story. It was also known she had been ill and has had financial worries.

Miss Van Benthuy-sen came to Paris after the war and reported certain aspects of the peace conference. She was then a member of the Paris edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. She returned to the United States in 1923 but returned to France in 1925.

Sinclair Lewis Gently Chides "Perfect Wife"

Gives Her Foibles in His Newest Book.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Dodswoth," by Sinclair Lewis. (Harcourt Brace). "Dodswoth" is the best book ever written on its subject, the most understanding, the most sympathetic. The first two of those adjectives might have been applied to former books by Sinclair Lewis. The last two are manifestations of a new personality in the person of Sinclair Lewis. The presence of charity and sympathy in the pen of Mr. Lewis makes of "Dodswoth" a superb "great" book as even its fine predecessors were not great. It is a mellow book, a gentle book, a book full of tenderness. And yet it is as uncompromisingly sturdy a book as the most bitter of its predecessors.

"Dodswoth" is the story of an American wife who feels herself superior to her husband—what many honest souls call the typical American wife. We all know her, and a great many of us are her, the woman who has a smattering of culture who thinks she is far above the dull business-like mind of her husband, who rules her husband with a pettily supercilious hand, who always is the woman who is about pronouncements of the Tyrol and Biarritz, about how warm or cold wine should be, about the modern movement, about the real place of invention in modern literature—all sorts of catchwords that mean no real understanding but make a good fourth of July display at dinner.

She is the sort of woman who keeps herself young and attractive, not to attract her husband but to incite other men from whom she can cooly withdraw if moments become too caloric. The absolutely selfish woman who has a way of putting every one else into the class of completely selfish pigs, and believes in her own usefulness, the sort of woman who allures many but has no soul.

Mr. Lewis has drawn an almost "terribly accurate picture of her. She is the first woman in any book by Sinclair Lewis who makes you feel that the author really knew her. His other heroines have been miracles of observation. Fran in "Dodswoth" is a miracle of understanding.

"And Dodswoth himself is the first hero among his later books whom his creator has really loved—and the first Lewis hero that the world at large will really love. The others every one has either respected or been amused at or liked. Dodswoth they can't help loving.

The book is the story of a very successful motor magnate who is persuaded by his wife to "travel." What Europe does to both of them is the drama of the book. What a distillation of the experience of it no reviewer's words can tell. It must be met first hand.

Shrewd observations make the book lucid. They are not mere records of the experience of the senses, but the distillation of these experiences by a mellow mind. There is nothing peevish in "Dodswoth"; there is much that is keen, critical, uncomplaining, but nothing that is really unkind. Dodswoth is one of the few heroes in fiction whose ideas fit and are fit for what their author says of them.

At Last Balboa, Discoverer of Pacific, Finds Biographer

"Sails and Swords," by Arthur Strawn. (Brentano's).

Stout Cortez that Mr. Keats so delightfully had starting with eagle eyes at the Pacific (in "On First Looking Into Chapman's Homer") has been and for that reason for many the gentleman who first looked upon the Pacific. Keats was slightly hazy about the gentleman's name. It was Balboa, as we all know. Strange enough, nobody ever thought Señor Balboa of enough importance to fill the pages of a complete biography until this year when Arthur Strawn offered us "Sails and Swords." It grew out of his own starting with eagle eyes at the Pacific. He was so excited when he first saw it from a peak of the Santa Cruz range in California that immediately Balboa came to his mind, and he wanted to know more about him. There wasn't much to know, so he dug around in old Spanish volumes, contemporary accounts and assorted records, and after eight years of search, and research produced this the first life of the gentleman who freebooted with plenty of sails and hard working swords.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

From what one might call a re-exposition of the now familiar and popular excerpts from Romberg's operetta, W-G-N, 8:30 to 9, we are faced anew with the inevitable conclusion that this creator of tunes which meet the modern cosmopolitan musical needs, does it in a way that is sufficiently different to make his work distinguishable from other composers working in the same field. Of the occasional unfamiliar strains, one could not fairly lay down one's finger and say, that's Romberg; that is not Romberg's. Yet through all of this composer's writings there is a certain flow of melody that is Romberg's and nobody's else. This holds good in the selections played and sung last evening from "May Time" and "The Student Prince."

As to "Blossom Time," I am aware that some minds take exception to this operetta because Schubert's compositions are picked up and incorporated bodily into its score. However, since "Blossom Time" has made the world acquainted with Schubert as no other medium with the possible exception of the radio has done, then let's welcome a similarly artistic plagiarism of some of the other great composers.

You see, a rather featureless evening gives one time and occasion for reflection. There were very few programs of thought provoking nature last evening, though there was plenty of bright and cheerful entertainment of purely background or ephemeral character.

For what it may be worth, I shall risk commenting upon two dissimilar programs in close proximity, though hours apart in performance.

First, the Radio Floorwalker program from W-G-N, 7 to 8, being furnished mostly by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra. It is a program in which every announcement is an advertisement, the musical accompaniment, however, being high class concert orchestra compositions. This program does not come under the heading of strictly artistic programs because of the advertising in it, but it is a success, and it defies criticism because of its essentially practical character.

Second, the salon music program from KYW, 10:30 to 11, is not an advertisement, the music content is of very high artistic order in material and in the playing, yet it is not an artistic success, and invites criticism because of the unnecessary trappings that go with the announcing. With this fault eliminated this would be one of the fine daily late evening features.

Many suicides testify to this fear of the responsibility of living, but, of the other side, there is the young friend Ernest and his likes. Ernest is 16 and hates school. The teacher told him that he was not good enough for the upper grade and must stay in his grade for one more year. Ernest called at the teacher's home and calmly informed him that if he, Ernest, were not a student, he would not have to commit suicide, "and you know," Ernest added, "how disagreeable that is for a teacher, because everybody accuses him of terrorizing the victim." The teacher remonstrated and Ernest said: "Naturally I won't commit suicide. I'll just disappear from Berlin and let the police find the body and take the blame." Ernest meant it, too, and the teacher knew it, and so they reached a compromise.

Duke and Duchess of York Visit Palaces of the Former Kaiser

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Copyright, 1929, by The Chicago Tribune.
BERLIN, March 15.—The Duke and Duchess of York spent most of their day in Berlin, on their way to Oslo, to the wedding of Prince Olav of Norway and Princess Martha of Sweden. They are visiting the palaces of the former Kaiser, their second cousin, who lost his throne after the world war in which the blood relations of the Hohenzollern and Windsor dynasties were on opposite sides.

The duke and duchess are here in cognito. Not a policeman was seen near them, but strong squads of police are hidden in the railroad stations and palaces and the British embassy is ready to protect them.

They started the day in the former Kaiser's palace in Berlin and gazed with the keenest interest on the only private piece of furniture, the Kaiser's bed, which he left in his palace. It is a bed carved with Nelson's ship "Victory," which was in the famous battle of Trafalgar, a British victory over a French fleet. On that desk the former Kaiser signed the mobilization order for what became the world war in 1914.

In the afternoon they visited the palaces at Potsdam as regular tourists without calling at the palace of their relatives, the former crown prince's family.

OSLO, Norway, March 15.—(AP)—Wedding presents for Prince Olav and Princess Martha, now beginning to arrive in large numbers, indicate that the young couple will have practically all their needs supplied when they set up housekeeping in a home of their own. They will be married March 21.

King Haakon, father of the bridegroom, has announced a prize competition among architects for the best plans for a residence for Prince Olav and his bride. It is thought that their new home will be built either near or as an addition to the royal summer castle, "Oslohall," which is situated on the Bygdoy, near Oslo, and commands a magnificent view of the fjord and the town.

The money for the country's wedding gift has been started, as well as a local subscription in Oslo for a special gift from the capital in which the young Prince Olav has grown to manhood. It has been suggested that the city's gift be a fully equipped library for the crown prince and princess's new home.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 15.—(AP)—Stockholm is busily preparing for the royal wedding of Crown Prince Olav and Princess Martha.

On Monday King Gustave will give a state banquet at the royal palace, after which the court escorted by two squadrons of cavalry, will drive through the capital which will be flag bedecked and lavishly illuminated. The royal party will leave that evening for Oslo, where the wedding will be celebrated.

Prince Olav is to take a special train at the frontier so as to reach the Norwegian capital before his bride and her parents, to be ready to receive them.

The people of Stockholm are expecting to give their princess a diamond tiara as a wedding present. A public fund also is being gathered with the purpose of creating a charity endowment in the name of Princess Martha.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital Seeking Fund of $250,000

A drive for $250,000 to aid St. Elizabeth's hospital, 1433 North Claremont avenue, was started last night among business organizations and leading citizens of the northwest side at a dinner in the assembly hall of the hospital. Karl Eitel is general chairman for the campaign. The St. Elizabeth's hospital was built in 1886 and during its 46 years of service has cared for over 100,000 patients. More than a fourth of those have been treated without charge. The order of the Poor Handmaids of Jesus aspects to contribute half the sum needed for the new addition, which will cost $500,000 all told. Still in active service is Sister Adelaide, a nurse in the hospital when it opened its doors.

TEACHERS HEAR HOW U. OF C. HIGH SCHOOL REWARDS ITS PUPILS

Rewards for scholastic accomplishment at the University of Chicago High school consist of special projects which are to be carried out at the initiative of the honored pupils, Robert Woelner, principal of the school, yesterday told members of the Central States Private School association, which is holding its annual session at the Hotel La Salle.

"With us each child is a separate problem," he explained. "The good student is allowed to work out ideas of his own."

C. W. Newhall, head master of Shattuck school; Karl G. Miller of the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Frederic Woodworth, acting president of the University of Chicago, were other speakers yesterday. Today the meeting will be addressed by Frank O. Holt of the University of Wisconsin, Charles E. Taylor, director of the educational records bureau of New York City; Col. F. L. Hunt of Culver Military academy, and G. N. Northrup, head master of the Chicago Latin school.

FINE FOR CHILDREN

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild, corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe, vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the digestive tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit forming medicine, but a safe, pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards' widely known family physician of Olden prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active, healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 50c and 60c sizes.

Laura S. Rockefeller Fund Gives Millions to Help Humanity

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, March 15.—The report of the Laura Spellman Rockefeller memorial, made public tomorrow, will show that in 1927 the total appropriations amounted to $10,314,137, with contingent appropriations of $3,357,028, increasing the total to $13,671,165. In 1928 there were appropriations of $19,654,938, with special appropriations of $17,500,000 and contingent appropriations of $927,124, bringing the last year's total to $38,080,058.

On Jan. 3, 1929, the Laura Spellman Rockefeller memorial was consolidated with the Rockefeller foundation, and accordingly from that date the separate existence of the memorial ceased.

The increasing interest of the memorial in the social sciences, the report says, and the development of the Rockefeller foundation's own program for the advancement of knowledge made it desirable for the principal activities of these organizations to be continued under a single administration.

"The trustees of the Laura Spellman Rockefeller memorial, before deciding favorably upon this consolidation, took action to establish the Rockefeller foundation's own program for the advancement of knowledge made it desirable for the principal activities of these organizations to be continued under a single administration."

Quiz on Marriage Stirs Up Storm for Missouri Students

Columbia, Mo., March 15.—(U. P.)—A small group of students and professors in the departments of sociology and psychology at the University of Missouri here has been circulating questionnaires seeking students' opinions on modern marriage, conventional and companionate, divorces, triangles, etc.

The papers, sent to about 500 men and 500 women students, have been seen by local business men, some of whom have demanded removal of the inquisitive professors and disciplining of the students. Some business men and others have discussed the idea of bringing the questionnaire to the attention of the legislature, asking that those issuing the questions be subjected to legislative inquiry.

About 200 of the questionnaires were filled out, returned to the "bureau of personal research," as the group in charge of the queries calls itself.

President Stratton, D. Brook of the university has forbidden further circulation of the questionnaires, characterizing them as "a fool trick."

The questions were said to have been prepared by students specializing in sociology, with the assistance of Dr. H. O. De Graff, sociology professor, and Dr. Max Meyer, professor of psychology.

Some alumni and Columbia merchants petitioned President Stratton, asking prompt "discharge of all persons connected with the university who are responsible," declaring "we have read with indignation the questionnaires sent out to young men and women students and hereby express our disapproval of such a vulgar communication."

N. T. Gentry of Columbia, former Missouri attorney general and judge of the Supreme court, was a leader in preparation of the petition.

Dowager Queen Marie on Way to Paris to See Son

BUCHAREST, Roumania, March 15.—(AP)—Dowager Queen Marie and her daughter, Princess Ileana, today were en route to Paris where they will stay a short time before continuing on to Brittany for a visit. While in Paris the queen will exchange greetings with her former Crown Prince Carol. Before leaving Bucharest last night her majesty told the correspondent that the meeting would be a family affair, without any political significance. The queen has not seen her son since October, 1926.

Woman Speaks from 28 Years of Motherhood

Mrs. Bevas has prepared two booklets, one on "Prayers and Graces for Children" and another called "Books to be Read to the Children or by Them," which will be sent free on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

"In those hours when playthings do not attract, why not open the windows and do a few simple exercises, or let the little ones indulge in a few moments of strenuous activity, just to let off steam? Even the tiny tots can lie on the bed and kick vigorously, and this form of exercise is good for the older ones, too, if you live in a flat where running or jumping will cause annoyance to other tenants. The few moments it will take to make up the bed again are offset by the time you save by the child's willingness to amuse itself, after the romp."

"A favorite sport with my little ones was acting out the fairy tales and stories read to them. It evoked shouts of laughter to see my almost six foot tall son drape himself over the piano bench, showing his nephew how to be the troll in 'Billy Goat Gruff.' Even new toys were forgotten at the holiday times when my grown and growing boys and girls showed the little folk the fascinating possibilities in each story. Many staid garments and prosaic household articles were changed by the alchemy of lively imaginations into marvelous things. But the one hard and fast rule of putting things back was rigidly adhered to."

"This was called moving and they pretended they were arranging things in a new cave, grotto, or palace, as the case might be. Ten little fingers were the ten of the helpful fairies who could not work alone, but must have the help of each other in almost everything. A gentle tolerance and understanding of the different ways of other countries can be taught by letting the children 'dress up,' as they all love to do. Just a scarf wound around the head in various manners will carry out the idea, and the grown folk will receive a liberal education, too, in reading the ways that Jens, Juan, Ivan, MacEwen, and their sisters assume themselves."

"One more point: often naughtiness is caused by hunger, so after a bit of exercise a toy tea party with small glasses of milk and a few crackers, or a piece of bread and butter cut in squares or a couple of pieces of good candy will tide the tiny tots over and not seriously interfere with their regular meals."

"I suppose this is too long, but

Egg Plant Purple Is a Fashionable Color

BY LOLITA.
NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Here is one of the smartest little frocks which Paris has sent to New York and it shows you how the yoke of an eggplant purple, a color which has already spoken of the vogue of these eggplant purples, a color which is demonstrated in kid shoes and matching accessories and which is sustained sometimes in both costume and millinery. It is obvious, however, that too much eggplant would be fatal to the average endowment of good looks. It is much too trying unless tempered by a harmonizing tone.

With the idea of ameliorating the intensity of this tint it is introduced in the above frock only as insets of silk crepe and in an undershirt exploited at the front. The frock proper is constructed in a light, soft violet, and it takes as its medium one of those extremely soft, light woolen materials destined to replace their more robust predecessors. In this vogue volée and estamine have scored a tremendous success, and as we find them today are varied by all manner of mixtures. The introduction of a rayon weave is a factor of supreme importance in the styling of our present day woollens and, also, one must refer to a frequent contrast between the two surfaces of the fabric.

But to go back to the frock under consideration, our first paragraph is marked by something more than fantasy. Look around you through the spring collections and you will see that the manipulation of the skirt yoke has a supreme bearing upon the present mode. Often it is pointed in front as we see it here, but in this case the insets at the side give it an altogether different air. The insets are interesting since they point to a revived consideration of that type so becoming to all long and slender arms, the bishop mode.

Here's the Way to Iron Out Those Bothersome Lines

We get wrinkles in our brows not so much from trying to meet the monthly bills as from stupid habits of frowning and other little face making amusements. But if you happen to be troubled with them, fine or otherwise, I can give you an exercise that will not only do your fair brow an undying favor, but will brighten-up the area around the eyes as well.

Grease the palms of your hands so that they will move more easily over the area recommended. Plant the wrist end of the palms directly over the eyelids, press them in lightly so you can feel the kneading, and work the wrist ends almost directly up to the hair line, then take an outward course to the temple's end, the hands going in opposite directions. Unless you have a massive brow you take in the whole surface to be covered with the palms.

This is an exercise you can do at almost any time of day you have a minute or two. It may be inconvenient to do the exercise at all times, but you can do it without the cream and you can learn with practice to get the best muscular action possible on the fleshy part between the eyelid proper and the eyebrow.

Eyelids droop and wither on so many women when the rest of their

FASCISTS OPEN NATIONAL VOTE CAMPAIGN TODAY

Unopposed Candidates Are Hand Picked.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
ROME, March 15.—Fascist Italy's oratorical campaign for election, with its unopposed list of four hundred deputies, which will compose the next Italian corporate parliament, begins today with a grand flourish tomorrow, when Signor Turati, secretary of the party, sounds the opening gun in a speech here.

The campaign signifies in an indisputable form the remnants of democracy in Italy. It will be a little reminiscent of previous campaigns, when orators of the opposing side also voiced the claims of their party. This time the merits of a hand-picked list of deputies alone will be sounded.

At first, the whole idea of any campaign oratory was banned. Now, under special orders of the Duce, each candidate has been assigned to a special speechmaking schedule for seven days: various prefectures of the country.

Mosconi Speaks Tomorrow.

In addition to Signor Turati's key-note campaign speech tomorrow, Signor Mosconi, minister of finance, is scheduled to make two speeches in Naples and Palermo, Sunday and Monday. The electorate of Italy has been greatly reduced and the idea of the campaign is to bring out as big a vote as possible in favor of Mussolini's hand-picked list.

It is confirmed tonight that voting will be reduced to the simplest formula. Two ballots will be presented to the elector, who will be by election officials, if he wants to vote for the Mussolini list, to cast the ballot marked yes into the voting urn. No marking is necessary. This favorable ballot bears the Fascist emblem and the Italian national colors on the interior side, which is then folded up, to the elector who will be told by electors a plain ballot, not bearing the flag and emblem, in the voting urn, and it is intended that when the ballot is folded the flag and emblem printed inside, will be invisible.

Held Elections March 24.

Election takes place March 24, a week from tomorrow. Italy has little appearance of the United States a week before election. There is no discussion outside of the Fascist press, no posters, no parades, and no bonfires, which characterized previous Fascist Italy. This is as it should be, say Fascist papers, for the issue before every man is the solidity and continuity of the present government.

"There will not be any trifling in this election," says the Tribune tonight, "such as candidates running around promising petty graft to voters. Every one knows why and for what reason they must vote yes."

WIFE'S SUICIDE NOTE TELLS OF A LOVE AFFAIR

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Viola Strain, 55 years old, found dead yesterday morning beside open gas jets in her home at 811 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, returned a verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health. A note found beside her body mentioned a love affair and named P. J. McLaren, architect, 5394 Midway Park, and Mrs. Nina Gorman, 311 Harrison street, Oak Park.

Her husband, John W. Strain, a railway employe, told Coroner Herman N. Bundesen that she had suffered an attack of influenza six months ago. He said his wife had confessed on Thursday night to an affair with McLaren and accused Mrs. Gorman of winning away the latter's affections.

McLaren, who is married and is the father of three children, said that he had known Mrs. Strain for twelve years, but insisted that his relations were no more than friendly. He testified that he had met Mrs. Gorman but once, more than a year ago, when he asked that some one be present at a meeting arranged by Mrs. Strain in her home. Mrs. Gorman was called, but refused to testify.

Greece, Jugo-Slavia to End Old Differences Tomorrow

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
GENEVA, March 15.—The long standing differences between Greece and Jugo-Slavia on the subject of the Salonika zone are expected to be terminated Sunday morning, when M. Campanos and M. Kourmanoudi, foreign ministers respectively of the two countries, will sign six protocols here liquidating all questions in connection with Salonika. A pact of amity and arbitration between the two countries will be signed at the same time.

Aviation Notes

Bad weather crippled the movement of air mail throughout the middle west yesterday. Fog, rain and a low ceiling extending from the Mississippi to the Atlantic coast and southward held most of the mail planes to the ground throughout the day. The Embury-Riddle plane to Cincinnati was able to get out yesterday morning. The National Air Transport mail from Dallas flew in three hours late because of the bad weather. The Thompson mail plane to Michigan and the Interstate mail from Evansville limped through with their cargoes. Otherwise plane movements were at a standstill. No planes were expected to fly last night and most of the mail was "trained."

The Air Activities company yesterday announced the completion of a new hangar at the North avenue airport, located 30 miles west of Chicago on North avenue. The hangar is 60 by 170 feet and will house planes to be used by this company in its air school activities. C. R. Borkland, former Royal Flying corps flyer and general manager of the company, stated that two planes had been delivered, one an Aeromarine 40 horse power monoplane for primary instruction, and a Consolidated "Husky."

The North avenue field has an area of 800 acres and is located three miles east of St. Charles.

Roosevelt field and Curtis field at Waterbury, L. I., have been purchased by a banking group and will be combined into the largest airport in the New York area. It was announced yesterday from that city. The combined fields will provide storage, repair and taxi services, and maintain a flying school. The bankers plan to establish piers at various junctures in New York harbor so that passengers landing at Roosevelt field may be taxed between Long Island and the heart of New York by amphibian planes.

Day and night sight-seeing excursions over Chicago have been resumed by the National Air Transport. The trimotored cabin planes of the N. A. T. will leave the Municipal airport at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m., it was announced.

GEORGE OLIVANY, TAMMANY CHIEF, SUDDENLY QUILTS

Gives Ill Health as His Reason.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—George W. Olivany resigned today as leader of Tammany hall on the ground of ill health.

His resignation was submitted at a meeting of the Tammany executive committee, which he had summoned, and came as a distinct surprise. He refused to accede to the request of some of the astounded assembly district leaders that he reconsider it, but consented that action on the resignation should be postponed for one week. Judge Olivany's action in resigning on the eve of a city campaign threw the leaders of the local Democratic organization into confusion. So far as could be learned he informed none of his close political associates of his intention until just before the meeting was called to order.

Said Nothing to Walker. He did not notify James F. Egan, secretary of Tammany, probably his closest political associate. He did not inform Mayor Walker, for whose nomination four years ago he was responsible and for whose renomination he is understood to have been committed. Concerning his successor, there is the chance for the selection of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, providing he wished to take over the duties which Judge Olivany found too onerous. However, inquiry among the district leaders disclosed that there was strong objection to Smith.

While Olivany's action was sudden, rumors that he would give way to another leader have been current since Tammany failed to give Gov. Smith its estimated majority in the election last November.

Smith's Friends Criticized Tiger. Smith's friends were free in their criticism of the Tiger, openly asserting the organization had knifed its favorite son in the back.

In the cross fire of charges Olivany became a target for both sides. Those who resented Smith's poor showing blamed the Tammany chief for letting the leaders get away from him. The leaders, on the other hand, felt that Olivany had stuck too close to Smith.

Al Angry; Won't Comment. Albany, N. Y., March 15.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, after seeking to evade them, became very angry when a group of newspaper men at an early hour today sought to obtain comment from him on the resignation of Tammany Leader Olivany. "I do not know what any one has done and I do not care," he exclaimed in a burst of temper. "I am going to say nothing about it tonight."

IRISH STATE WINS BIG DISPUTE WITH BRITISH LEADERS

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, March 15.—The Irish Free State has just made another successful gesture of independence.

When it was announced a few weeks ago that the council of state had been appointed to represent the king by the British government alone, Patrick McMilligan, Irish minister of external affairs, immediately protested against the right of the British government to act without consultation of the self-governing dominions which share equally in the kingdom. He also notified the British government that, in the future, it became necessary to appoint royal representatives, Ireland would refuse to recognize appointments unless it would equally share in the choice.

Mr. McMilligan even said that Ireland refused to recognize the appointment of any members to such a commission unless they were members of the royal family. He objected particularly to the appointment of British ministers like the prime minister or lord chancellor on such a commission, which acted not only in the name of Great Britain, but of the whole empire.

Mr. McMilligan insisted that even in the existing commission only members of the royal family could act in cases affecting the Irish Free State.

This was acknowledged by the British government and was the result of documents recalling Prof. T. A. Suidy as Irish minister to Washington, and appointing Michael MacWhite instead, which were signed only by the queen, the prince of Wales and the duke of York.

O'Higgins Wins Seat. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
DUBLIN, March 15.—Dr. O'Higgins, brother of the late Vice President Kevin O'Higgins and Free State party candidate, was elected a member of the Dail today for North City. The defeated candidate was Oscar Traynor of the Sinn Fein party. O'Higgins won by a majority of 151.

The contest was fought with unusual intensity, the government side making the recent terrorism of jurors and witnesses a feature of the campaign.

A large section of the country today was discussing De Valera's extraordinary speech in the Dail last night in which he declared the government is not the legal representative of the people and that it had obtained its power by a coup d'etat in 1921 and not by a majority vote. He declared the Sinn Fein party outside the Dail is the true representative of the people and should be allowed to reestablish or continue a republic.

All Americas to Be Linked April 1 by 4,300 Mi. Airway. New York, March 15.—[Special.]—North, Central and South America are to be linked over a 4,300 mile airway on April 1 by the union of Pan-American and Pan-American Grace Airways at Cristobal. The service will extend from Miami to Peru with the closing of the 950 mile gap now existing between Ecuador and the canal zone.

BRITAIN SEEKS TO MAKE POUND MONETARY UNIT

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, March 15.—Great Britain's determination that the pound sterling be a monetary unit in the proposed superbank of reparations is responsible for reports of dissatisfaction over the scheme from England.

The British insist that the bank be located in London, realizing that if its headquarters are established in Holland the florin will be the official money.

It is understood that America opposes placing the bank in London, since such action would strike New York's increasing importance as a money center, and it was hinted that Berlin may be finally selected as the site for the bank.

Progress was made at today's meeting when Lord Reelstoke, British delegate, presented an interim report stressing the superbank's organization as a trustee for reparations.

NEED FOR NEW U. S. CRUISERS PROGRAM SEEN

Bridgeman Report Stirs
Washington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Adoption by Great Britain of the three cruisers a year construction program advocated yesterday by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, in presenting his 1929 naval estimates to the house of commons, will necessitate a new cruiser building program for the United States, in the opinion of "adequate navy" members of congress.

Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval committee takes the position that if Britain continues to build cruisers at the rate of three a year it will be necessary for his committee to take up the question of adding cruisers to the battleship replacement program scheduled to come up in the next congress.

Want 43 Big Cruisers.
Just how many cruisers would be added to the battleship program is to be decided when the bill comes up before the house naval committee. Navy officials would like to have the next congress approve sufficient cruisers so that the United States would continue building five cruisers a year until this government has forty-three 10,000 ton, 8 inch gun vessels. This would call for the addition of ten cruisers to the twenty-three 10,000 ton vessels now authorized or building.

Keen interest was shown by state and navy department officials in that portion of the Bridgeman report which indicated that Great Britain plans to place 6 inch, rather than 8 inch, guns on two of three vessels to be built this year. Britain now has sixteen 8 inch gun cruisers built and building and four others armed with 7.5 inch guns.

Would Give British 50.
Under the terms of the naval building bill approved by former President Coolidge the United States will have twenty-three 8 inch gun cruisers built or building by some time in 1931. If no further American cruisers were built before 1940 the United States would have thirty-three cruisers on that date, ten being 6 inch gun ships. Should Great Britain build three cruisers a year until 1940 she would have at least fifty modern cruisers to America's thirty-three. In addition, ten of the oldest of the United States' cruisers would be approaching obsolescence.

Fiery Veteran of Many Famous Wars Dies at 99

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MEXICO CITY, March 15.—Gen. Charles Horace Montgomery y Agramonte, the oldest American resident in Mexico, died today at his home in Popotla, a suburb of Mexico City, in his ninety-ninth year. Gen. Agramonte was born in Cuba in 1830 of an American father and a Cuban mother. He registered himself as an American citizen at the age of 21, seventy-eight years ago.

Proud of his American citizenship, Gen. Agramonte's ambition was to live to be 100. He was on the verge of attaining his ambition when he died in bed in the night, after having fought with distinction through many wars now famous in the world's history—the colonial Indian mutiny, the Maori insurrection, the American civil war, and the first Cuban war. At the age of 68 he volunteered for active service with the American forces in the Cuban war. He was rejected when forced to confess his age.

Made Thousands of Speeches.
Gen. Agramonte was the most noted orator in the American colony. He was toastmaster at thousands of banquets and was elected to greet Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow two weeks after the latter arrived here, when he was welcomed at the American club as the guest of the American residents.

The ancient orator's voice still was resonant with carrying capacity and filled the great banquet hall seating over five hundred guests. Gen. Agramonte's one great sorrow in later life was the fact that he had been refused permission, because of his advanced age, to take part in the world war, which he characterized as "the most spectacular event in the world's history."

Gen. Agramonte gained the reputation of being one of the finest swordsmen in Europe, where he lived many years. He was a fiery character. In living up to his army and social code in Europe, Gen. Agramonte fought many picturesque duels, several of which retired him to the hospital. He made life a real romance. Gen. Agramonte was a linguist. He spoke Spanish, French, German, Portuguese, Italian, and several eastern tongues, including Chinese, which he acquired while attached to the British forces for several years in various parts of China.

Sentenced to Death, Escapes.
Gen. Agramonte was at the siege of Lucknow, at Bull Run, Antietam, Gettysburg, and in the Wilderness campaign. He was captured by the Spaniards during the first Cuban war, taken to Morro castle in Havana, court-martialed and sentenced to die at sunrise. But he escaped during the night.

Two years ago, at the age of 97, Gen. Agramonte voyaged to Buenos Aires. He made a trip of 10,000 miles meeting old friends at almost every port. He was not sick a day and enjoyed the trip immensely.

Gen. Agramonte has five children living, two of whom are 70 year old twins.

New Haven, Conn., March 15.—(AP)—Yale for the fifth consecutive year was champion intercollegiate swimming champions by defeating Rutgers in the annual "Relay." The Yale team won the title by a score of 10-0.

Two of the greatest shot makers in the game led a field through a blinding rainstorm to top position in the Florida open golf tournament here today. Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, national open champion, and Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., matched stroke for stroke to finish with 70-72-142 each, aggregate par in the opening thirty-six hole grind.

The other bill candidates are youngsters. There are six of them. But even if the entire six prove "busts" Peck still will have enough if he can keep four of his experienced half dozen in operation. That, however, is going to be a Job.

BY O. A. MATHER.
The Ford Motor Company of Canada, the first foreign concern established by Henry Ford to market his automobile abroad, yesterday announced a twenty for one split-up of its stock.

Although Mr. Ford several times has denied reports that he planned to change the Ford Motor company into an operating corporation and offer stock to investors, it would seem that he is now adverse to adopting this plan in the drive for foreign business.

BOND MARKET RESPONDS TO MELLON'S ADVICE

(New York bond list page 30.)
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, March 15.—The bond market responded today to Secretary Mellon's advice to buy bonds and closed with more strength than at any previous time in more than a fortnight.

Convertible bonds were in good demand, in sympathy with stocks. More than $1,000,000 of International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4 1/2% changed hands, following the news that a stock split-up is contemplated.

A decrease in net earnings for 1923 was shown in the annual report of the Diamond Match company issued yesterday. Net earnings after all charges and federal taxes totaled $1,587,642, equal to $9.56 a share on the common stock, compared with $1,664,353, or $9.66 a share, in the preceding year.

Tells Merits of Bonds as Investment

BY SCRUTATOR.
Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's suggestion that this is a good time for prudent investors to buy bonds doubtless will be greeted with pleasant feelings by those who are engaged in marketing this class of securities.

There is no denying that bonds lost popularity with the moneyed public during the bull market of 1923. The same tendency continued through the first two months of 1924. A compilation by Lawrence Stern & Co. shows that the total bond issues in February were $94 millions, while in the same month a year ago the amount was 713 millions. Sales on the New York Stock exchange also reflect difference, bonds traded there up to March 5 aggregating only 461 millions, as against 731 millions in the same period last year.

Bonds are not dead as an investment medium. The monthly average of the issues in 1923 was $48 million. Stock issues averaged 294 millions a month, the figures being given by the department of commerce. The relative change, however, was much greater. For the six years preceding 1923 the average issues of bonds were three times the average of stock issues.

How to Profit.

Rollin A. Wilbur, president of the Investment Bankers' association, in an interview this week pointed out that the market for bonds is still large. Insurance companies, limited by law to securities with a high factor of safety, still buy largely. It is the small individual buyer who has apparently deserted bonds for stocks.

Will Open Special-Branch
for Women Investors Only

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, March 15.—A reflection of the current interest in being taken in the stock market is seen in the announcement that a large New York stock exchange firm will open Monday morning a new branch office exclusively for women. It will contain a complete board, with transactions posted on both the New York stock exchange and curb quotations, and there will be five "customers' women" in attendance. The only male persons to be permitted in the room will be two quotation boys. It was found impossible by the firm to find young women efficiently experienced in stock quotations to handle this task, and it has been turned over to the boys.

INSULL'S HOUSEHOLD
APPLIANCE-SIGN CO.
INCREASES EARNINGS

A substantial increase in earnings during 1923 was reported yesterday by the Federal Electric company, the Insull corporation engaged in the electric household appliance and electric sign business. Increased popularity of the Neon type of signs during the last year is reflected in the company's financial position.

Net for the year totaled $223,710, compared with $164,288 in 1922. As there are accumulations of 94 1/2 per cent on the preferred dividend for the period ranging from Nov. 1, 1914, to April 1, 1923, there is nothing this year for common stockholders. No dividends on the common have ever been paid. With preferred dividends out of the way this year's net would be equivalent to $245 a share on the common stock.

The report of John F. Glichrist, president, states that the directors are anxious to again resume payment of dividends.

Advertising Brings Bigger Profits to This Candy Co.

Advertising in daily newspapers was largely responsible for a big increase in net earnings of Bunte Brothers, candy manufacturers, during 1923, Theodore W. Bunte, president, stated yesterday. Net income, he said, totaled $534,145. This is equal to $5.34 a share on 100,000 shares of common stock outstanding and compares with $369,362, or $3.69 a share, in 1922. Net sales totaled $6,825,686, a gain of about $500,000 over those of 1922.

A Question of Balance

IN the general enthusiasm for common stocks, some investors have lost sight of two of the basic principles of sound investments: DIVERSIFICATION—which promotes the safety of the investment fund. REGULAR INCOME—which is one of the essential reasons for investment.

Considerations of income, diversification and safety dictate the inclusion in an investment account of senior securities with a fixed rate of return. We believe in carefully selected common stocks for investment but the well-balanced account will also include sound bonds and selected preferred stocks. They add strength to an investment structure and assure a regular income.

This is a good time for the investor to review his security holdings in the light of basic investment principles. The current high price of money has made fixed income-bearing securities particularly attractive.

WOMAN BUYS PAIR OF APARTMENTS FOR $785,000

Mrs. Hanna Zuker Adds to Her Holdings.

BY AL CHASE.

Mrs. Hanna Zuker of 5329 Kenmore avenue, owner of thirty or forty Chicago apartment buildings, yesterday added to her holdings by purchasing two more big structures, both on Sheridan road, paying a reported $785,000 for the pair. She bought the sixty-unit building at 4126-36 Sheridan road, lot 100 by 200, from the Cochran & McClellan company, for $375,000. From a H. Lowenberg she bought seventy-four apartments, at 7685 Sheridan road for a reported $410,000. The lot is 220 by 121. Edward Zuker was broker in both transactions.

In recently reporting the ninety-nine year lease at 3504-S South State street it was incorrectly stated that the average annual rental was $77,097. It should have read $7,097.

BUILDS AT 79TH AND PHILLIPS. M. Kandl has taken title to 107 by 130 feet at the southeast corner of seventy-ninth street and Phillips avenue from the Woodlawn Trust & Savings bank, trustee. He is erecting a building on the site to contain twenty-seven apartments of one, two, three and four rooms, with a number of stores on the ground floor. Norman Kandl is architect.

Thomas J. Harper, president of the West Town State bank, bought from Frank J. Solick, 75 by 128 feet of vacant at 5143-47 West Madison street for an undisclosed consideration. Mr. Harper bought the property for investment.

Mr. Solick then bought 50 by 175 feet of vacant at 4830 West Madison from Mrs. Rose Murphy for a reported $100,000. He intends to improve the land eventually. E. C. Berglund was attorney. McGee & Harrington were brokers in the first transaction and Charles Rabendoff was attorney in the latter.

Lakewood Avenue Deal. Myer Kaitzman has bought the nine apartment building at 6827-29 Lakewood avenue, lot 50 by 110, from Mrs. M. I. Temkin for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $64,000. Sam Chernan of E. A. Hastings & Co. represented both parties.

Paul Greenhut and Sam Perlberg have bought the building at 9238 Cottage Grove avenue from Susan L. Martin for a reported $40,000, and will open a retail hardware store. This is the third of a chain of establishments to be operated by Greenhut & Co. Bernstein, Zolla & Bernstein were attorneys.

Annette and Gertrude C. Heinebach have sold the six apartment building at 8813-15 Wayne avenue to Joseph Byrne for an undisclosed price, subject to a first mortgage of $22,500. Samuel H. Gross of the Gubbins & McDermott, was broker.

Cotton Meets Selling Despite the Floods Cotton markets made but a feeble response yesterday to the bullish news due to liberal selling around midday when prices had reached the top, as the buying gave out, and some of the early buyers turned to the selling side.

In all the trade was not broad enough to make more than the close of points net lower on distant futures in Chicago to 8 points higher on the near by. In other markets gains were 2 to 4 points. Trading in all was fair.

Liverpool closed 5 to 8 points net higher with 7,000 bales sold. Heavy rains and floods were reported in the south, making prospects for an early start in the fields more uncertain.

Heater reported spinners takings for the week at 285,000 bales against 238,000 bales the previous week and 278,000 bales last year. World's visible supply of American cotton is 4,943,000 bales, against 5,027,000 bales last year.

March 18, 1929— And Its Meaning to Chicago

On Monday, March 18, Chicago will take a new position in the financial world, with the advent of its first billion dollar bank, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company. Only two other cities—London and New York—will have commercial banks as large and with comparable international facilities. The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company will unite, under one roof at 231 South LaSalle Street, the resources, facilities, personnel and business of the Continental National Bank and Trust Company and the Illinois Merchants Trust Company. This greater bank will rank among the leading banks of the world and will command recognition for Chicago in every center of business importance
